

Patient Gets New Heart in Paris Hospital

Doctors Express Concern Over 66-Year-Old Man's Recovery

PARIS (AP) — The first French heart transplant operation was performed this weekend but doctors today expressed concern for the patient's recovery.

Speaking with newsmen 30 hours after the operation, the doctors reported the patient suffered a circulation failure during surgery and since then nerve complications have set in.

The patient is Clovis Roblain, 66, a truck driver from central France, who had suffered for years with a heart ailment.

This was the world's seventh human heart transplant operation, but only one of the other patients survived. He is Dr. Philip Blalberg, 58, a South African dentist who was operated on Jan. 2 at Cape Town. He went home from the hospital March 16.

9-Hour Operation
The operation began Saturday night at La Pitie Hospital and ended nine hours later. Heart surgeons Christian Cabrol and Gerard Guiraudon headed the operating team.

Dr. Maurice Mercadier, chief of surgery at La Pitie Hospital, told a news conference "the condition of the patient is causing anxiety among us."

Mercadier said Roblain had not yet recovered lucidity, but did not explain further. He added that there had been no difficulty in the operation itself.

He said the patient's electrocardiogram was normal, that his pulse was regular but his blood pressure was high.

The cardio vascular or circulatory problem developed during the operation and the blood pressure suddenly lowered. There was speculation that there had been some brain damage, before the blood pressure returned to normal, but Mercadier did not mention this possibility.

Earlier, Mercadier had said there had been "neurological complications which made the prognosis very reserved."

Roblain was placed in a room, sterilized with ultra violet rays, after the operation.

Roblain's heart was in such bad condition that surgeons said they had held little hope for his life.

The heart was taken from Michel Gyppaz, 23, who suffered fatal head injuries in an automobile collision Thursday.

Gyppaz, a metal worker, was returning to his home in the Paris suburb of Bondy driving a small car, when it collided with another at an intersection. His car was thrown against a concrete lamp post.

Gyppaz suffered mortal brain injuries, doctors said. They said that with agreement of his family and that of Roblain the heart transplant was decided upon. Gyppaz was declared dead after electro encephalogram tests were taken, in accordance with a new French government directive drawn up only last Wednesday.

Cabrol and Guiraudon were

Draft Board Wants Look At Blind Man

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A blind Harvard Law School student has been reclassified 1-A by his draft board in Mt. Vernon, N.Y., and ordered to take his pre-induction physical examination.

"I'm particularly anxious to take the eye test," Harold Krents said Saturday night.

"If I go, my ambition is to be a bombardier," he added.

Krents, 23, said his 2-S student deferment had been canceled and he has been given 30 days to appeal.

"It's really wild," Krents said. "I talked to my father today and he said the draft board told him: 'He very well may be blind, but he still has to take the physical.'"

Deferment Canceled
Krents said he has written to his draft board every year indicating he was blind and therefore should be classified 4-F, but that every year he has been notified he was classified 2-S. Then two days ago the student deferment was canceled.

"All I can say is we must be losing the war," Krents said. "If they're that desperate I'll go—as long as somebody will aim me."

Krents has been virtually blind since birth, and completely without sight since the age of nine.

Enemy Scatters From U.S. Assault on Valley

Thousands Of Troopers In Invasion

SAIGON (AP) — A big U.S. force that plunged by helicopter into what its commander called "real paydirt" has found at least one enemy camp and supplies in the A Shau Valley, but the enemy troops scattered before the invaders.

The 10-day-old offensive, not announced until Sunday night, continues under a security blackout. Correspondents with the troops were permitted to report only actions in the first three days of the assault.

The helicopters swarmed in April 19 carrying thousands of U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division troopers and equipment into what has been a North Vietnamese stronghold for two years. Enemy guns brought down or damaged 30 of the choppers.

'Big Bad Day'

"Hell, I've never lost that many in weeks and weeks," said Maj. Gen. John J. Tolson, commander of the Flying Horsemen. "By far it's the hottest place we've ever gone into. The old opponent gave me a big bad day."

The U.S. Command said the operation, called Delaware, was a "reconnaissance in force," indicating that the American force would smash the staging areas and supply lines and then pull out. South Vietnamese paratroopers formed a blocking force at the valley's exit toward Hue.

Despite the heavy antiaircraft fire, casualties on both sides were reported relatively light in the first three days, with fewer than 50 North Vietnamese and 20 Americans killed. Sixteen U.S. helicopter crewmen were wounded.

Uncover Camp

After the landing, Pfc. Jimmy R. Rose of Smithfield, N.C., and Sgt. Hillary Craig of Winter Park, Fla., followed a communications wire to a 30-building enemy camp evacuated so quickly that laundry still was hanging on lines.

The American troops found dozens of 50-gallon drums of gasoline, four Russian trucks, 300 Chinese automatic rifles still in crates, hundreds of artillery and antiaircraft rounds, a ton of rice and 100 Russian mine detectors.

The 25-mile-long valley near the Laotian border and southwest of Hue, has been a staging point for North Vietnamese troops since they overran a U.S. Special Forces camp in it two years ago.

"This is one of the most important pieces of real estate the enemy has," said Gen. Tolson.

Some 450 tons of explosives were dropped here by the Air Force in January and March to stop a buildup of men and material. ## Hanoi Responds To 15 Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam has responded through diplomatic contacts in Laos to U.S. proposals of 15 possible sites for preliminary peace talks, U.S. officials said today, but there is still no agreement on a site.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said there were sessions in Vientiane, Laos, on Saturday and again on Sunday.

The United States in the preceding three weeks had sent at least three messages to Hanoi suggesting a total of 15 possible cities for talks and the State Department had said that there had been no official or formal response from the North Vietnamese government.

Today, however, in response to questions about the Saturday and Sunday contacts, officials said that there now have been responses.

McCloskey first said that the main effort of the U.S. and North Vietnam has been to settle the site problem, implying there was some subsidiary effort on what the parties might talk about in the next round after the site is selected.

Under questioning, however, McCloskey said that in fact the effort to agree to a site was the only effort and that the issue of an agenda had not been involved.

McCloskey refused to say whether the North Vietnamese responses to the U.S. 15-city proposal were negative.

In Vientiane, meanwhile, North Vietnamese Ambassador Nguyen Chan said today Hanoi stands by Phnom Penh or Warsaw as alternative sites for preliminary Vietnam peace talks.

Asked about rumors of possible compromise in the argument over the site, Chan said: "We suggested first one place then another. It's up to the United States to show its good will and choose."

Poor People's Campaign

March's First Phase Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 100 advance scouts from the Poor People's Campaign kicked off today what could become the nation's largest and longest camp-in.

It would have to get a lot larger than originally planned to beat the estimated 15,000 veterans who camped on Capitol Hill in 1932, demanding their veterans bonuses be paid 13 years ahead of schedule.

But campaign organizers, here for three days of preliminary negotiating with government leaders, said Sunday they think it might be bigger.

Talks With Officials

Support among the poor has proven so strong, they said, that they've turned from their original goal of 3,000 tent dwellers to talk of "hundreds of thousands" of demonstrators camped all over Washington.

was assassinated April 4, has scheduled talks today through Wednesday with federal department heads from Secretary of State Dean Rusk on down.

Today's schedule included calls on Rusk, Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, and Robert Weaver, secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

The thought of hundreds of thousands of people, mostly Negroes, streaming into tent cities before the nation's capital has had time to recover from its early April riots is unsettling to many, even though organizers take pains to emphasize their belief in nonviolence.

Almost nobody is neutral about the idea. Some Senate leaders have denounced it, while others say the poor should be welcomed. Businessmen are reducing inventories and duplicating vital records.

Police have laid plans for possible disturbances. And in the storefront headquarters of SCLC, a small army of volunteers works hard at sorting out last-minute details.

Not One-Day March

Nothing much is expected to happen until May 13. That's when Abernathy, convinced that his pleas for a guaranteed annual income and housing, job and education guarantees will fall on deaf ears, expects to lead the first wave of his thousands of marchers into Washington.

And then? "That's what I'd like to know," said a 25-year-old unemployed mechanic who lives not far from SCLC headquarters. "I ain't had much education, but even I can see that they ain't gettin' nothin' out of Congress."

The campaign will not be another good-natured, one-day march on Washington like the one in 1963, King told a business group before he was killed. "We will be militant," he said. "We will stay until we get a response."

His words were echoed Sunday by campaign coordinator Bernard Lafayette, who said:

"We feel it may become necessary to visit the congressmen. And if there is no response, it may become necessary to wait for him . . . to wait in an undesirable place."

In other words, to stage sit-ins—the civil disobedience phase of the campaign.

"We feel Congress has to be changed, and that's how our demands will be met," Lafayette said.

'Neo-Nazis' Gain in W. German Voting

Ultra-Rightists Get 9.8 Per Cent Of Ballots; Brandt's Party Suffers

By JOHN BAUSMAN
STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — West Germany's ultra-rightist party won seats in another state legislature Sunday and got its biggest share of the vote to date. Willy Brandt's Socialists were the big losers.

The election in Baden-Wuerttemberg was the last state vote before the federal elections next year and was considered an important indication of political trends. Public interest was reflected by a 70.6 per cent turnout of the 5.6 million eligible voters, a record for an election in the state.

The ultra-right National Democrats, whose opponents charge they are neo-Nazis, were campaigning in the state for the first time. They won 12 of the 127 legislative seats and collected 9.8 per cent of the vote. The three-year-old party now has won seats in seven state parliaments.

Influenced by Riots
All parties agreed the voters were influenced by the leftist student demonstrations and riots in West Berlin and other major cities during the Easter weekend. The National Democrats took a hard line toward the students, and the party chairman, Adolf Von Thadden, accused the Socialists of a fuzzy attitude toward the demonstrators.

Brandt's son Peter was a prominent demonstrator. Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats remained the strongest party in the state, but with 44.2 per cent of the vote, it had 2 per cent less than four years ago.

Brandt's Social Democrats took a harder loss, winning 29 per cent of the vote compared to 37.3 per cent in 1964. The Free Democrats increased their share of the vote from 13.1 per cent to 14.4.

It was the worst setback for the Socialists since they joined the Christian Democrats in a coalition federal government in November 1966. This could put a strain on the Bonn government.

It was the first time that both smaller parties had gained at the expense of the two larger parties. For many years the trend in West Germany has been for the big parties to get bigger and the small ones to get smaller or even disappear.

Once More, Rocky Will Tell His Plans

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will make "an announcement concerning his political plans" at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Leslie S. Sote, the governor's press secretary, said today.

Sote's announcement came as reports circulated in the Capitol that Rockefeller would declare his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller has arranged to fly a full complement of newsmen with him when he travels to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on Thursday on a trip that had not been previously announced.

In Albany, today, the governor met with top aides and arranged to meet with legislative leaders and New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay in an effort to clear up an impasse over the state budget and request for more state aid to big cities.

Rockefeller was reported ready to cancel his appearance once on a tour with Republican governors in several western states early next month to obtain information needed to put together a GOP platform for the upcoming presidential nominating convention.

In making known Rockefeller's intention of holding a news conference Tuesday, Sote refused to go beyond his brief statement which said:

Surprised Nation

"Gov. Rockefeller will have an announcement concerning his political plans at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the Red Room."

Rockefeller surprised political leaders nationwide on March 21 when he said that he would not actively seek the nomination this year.

He said then that he would comment on the issues and would be available if a draft developed. His associates said later that he felt that his remarks had been interpreted too literally.

Hughes, Getty Top 'Rich' List

NEW YORK (AP) — A Fortune magazine survey report says the two richest Americans—the only ones who probably can be listed as billionaires—are oilman J. Paul Getty and financier Howard Hughes.

The May issue of the magazine says Getty, 75, and Hughes, 62, are followed by six other Americans who are half-billionaires and 153 who have a net worth of more than $100 million each.

The Fortune article estimates Getty's visible assets at $957,404,289 conservatively and $1,338,417,316 liberally.

It estimates Hughes' wealth at $965,500,000 conservatively and $1,373,000,000 liberally. Fortune says that a similar survey it made in 1957 estimated Getty's wealth between $700 million and $1 billion, and Hughes' wealth between $200 million and $400 million.

"All told," the article says, "45 persons in the U.S. were identified then as having fortunes over $100 million. In the decade since, the centimillionaire population has more than tripled and those with $150 million or more has grown to 66." In compiling the list of these 66 individuals, the article says, Fortune "included the holdings of spouses and minor children of trusts, and of foundations established by the individuals or their spouses."

Rockefeller Brothers

Listed in the $200 million to $300 million class are New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his brothers—David, John and Laurence, all of New York, and Winthrop, governor of Arkansas.

"About half the people with $150 million or more inherited the bulk of it," the article says, and "the notion that the du Ponts, Fords, Mellons and Rockefellers are among America's wealthiest citizens happens to be true."

Start Toward Negotiations Paving Way for LBJ's Successor

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the month since President Johnson reversed course on Vietnam, his war and peace moves suggest a basic decision to cut U.S. involvement in the conflict as fully and quickly as possible. He appears to be working along two lines. One is directed

It is the program often talked about in the past. But this time high officials are saying privately the time has come for the South Vietnamese "to face up to their responsibilities" — with the implication that if eventually they cannot stand pretty much alone they will have to accept the consequences.

Quick Agreement
Officials said agreement on a site could be reached in a few hours with the kind of contact now possible with North Vietnam through the U.S. and North Vietnamese embassies in Laos. Or the squabbling could drag on for more weeks.

The Johnson administration meanwhile is disturbed by the heavy flow of men and supplies poured into South Vietnam by Hanoi since the bombing stopped. Washington officials said about 10,000 truckloads of men and goods have gone south in the past month, an increase of about 25 per cent over the record levels of December and January.

Thus widespread speculation about the possibility of compromise on Paris as a site for preliminary peace talks was paralleled by some rumblings of worry about what Johnson may feel he has to do about the bombing limitation if Hanoi maintains its expanding military activity.

Johnson has about nine months more in office in view of his decision against re-election, and no one in high position in Washington thinks the odds seriously favor his concluding a peace agreement in that time.

What he is doing in one sense, therefore, is preparing for his successor a range of choices in Vietnam policy next year, with withdrawal at one extreme and military escalation at the other.

How the new dual course develops in the next few months will depend greatly on what happens in Vietnam — in the war, in Hanoi's diplomatic maneuvers and in Saigon's acceptance of responsibility.

New President
President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam and his associates should understand that in terms of U.S. policy, time may be running out for them. They could have far less U.S. support next year from a new president in Washington, with even more radical changes in U.S. policy than those Johnson has initiated.

There should also be access for son to accept Warsaw, to which he objected as un-neutral. Such a North Vietnamese victory in the opening round could create bad trouble between the United States and South Vietnam, which is strenuously opposed to meeting in Communist Poland.

They did not break the site deadlock but at least North Vietnam showed continuing willingness to keep in touch with the United States.

The administration's judgment now is that North Vietnam probably intends to get into preliminary talks at the ambassadorial level at some point. The deadlock is not taken as evidence of a real unwillingness to negotiate, stalling the present contacts to death. The most general assessment of the current situation, accepted in the government here, is this:

The North Vietnamese and the United States have in fact begun negotiations over a possible peace settlement. Neither side can possibly know what the true aims of the other are. Both sides therefore are probing and testing for strengths and weaknesses.

Public Opinion
North Vietnam has been trying to find out whether it could muster enough public opinion pressure to force Johnson to accept Warsaw, to which he objected as un-neutral. Such a North Vietnamese victory in the opening round could create bad trouble between the United States and South Vietnam, which is strenuously opposed to meeting in Communist Poland.

son announced the U.S. also was ready to "establish contact." That exchange of public statements set the stage for the long negotiations which have followed over selection of a site for what would in effect be preliminary talks.

The United States has sent North Vietnam five notes since Johnson made his first move a month ago and has acknowledged receiving three notes from Hanoi. The exchange has defined a deadlock.

The North Vietnamese have insisted on Warsaw, Poland, or Phnom Penh, Cambodia, and the United States has objected to those two and offered 15 other places in Asia and Europe which Hanoi has termed inadequate.

In this exchange the United States has been in a weaker propaganda position than North Vietnam because of Johnson's widely proclaimed readiness of recent years to send a representative anywhere, anytime to talk peace.

Neutral Sites
Hanoi has tried to use this declaration to force the U.S. into accepting Warsaw, but Johnson has said the site must be a neutral place with secure communications, access for the U.S. and its Asian allies, and free of psychological advantages for either side. He said there should also be access for son to accept Warsaw, to which he objected as un-neutral. Such a North Vietnamese victory in the opening round could create bad trouble between the United States and South Vietnam, which is strenuously opposed to meeting in Communist Poland.

would respond to the restraint he had shown in limiting U.S. bombing. His associates say they have seen no evidence of such restraint, that North Vietnamese infiltration into South Vietnam during March and April has been extreme heavy.

Johnson on his part decided at the outset that there would be no problem about agreeing on some neutral place. But he also decided he would not be put into an unfavorable position or disfavor to hold down infiltration or to believe the United States was ready to make a peace that would amount to a face-saving surrender.

Johnson said on March 31 in a letter to the South Vietnamese asking for talks that he would not make a phony peace to cover up U.S. abandonment of South Vietnam.

Washington officials are uncertain how to assess the ground war in South Vietnam and therefore how to predict its effect on peace negotiation prospects. They continue to insist they have received no suggestions from any source — such as the Soviet Union or another Communist government — that North Vietnam has been deliberately de-escalating the war.

As late as mid-March, Secretary of State Dean Rusk argued before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the bombing of North Vietnam was essential to hold down infiltration or to believe the United States was ready to make a peace that would amount to a face-saving surrender.

Youth Held in Slaying Of Five Youngsters on Central Illinois Farm

CHARLESTON, Ill. (AP) — Thomas Charles Fuller, 18, is being held in Coles County jail without bond for a preliminary hearing Tuesday on charges of murdering three brothers and two sisters of a girl he reportedly dated.

The youth was arrested Sunday near Eastern Illinois University some 13 hours after the five children of Mr. and Mrs. William Cox were shot to death outside their home near Mattoon.

The dead children were found Saturday night in and around a barn on the family farm. Deputy Coroner Jess Caudill said each of the victims had been shot in the head with a small caliber pistol and the two girls' heads also had been battered.

Killed in the slaughter were Lewis, 16; Theresa, 9; Mary Catherine, 8; Gary, 7, and Kenneth, 5. Funeral services for the victims will be Wednesday in the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Mattoon.

Police said a teen-age daughter, Louise, 16, was home at the time of the slayings but was unharmed. Friends of the family said Louise, whose twin brother, Lewis, was killed, had been dating Fuller.

Authorities Silent
Authorities declined to discuss possible motives for the slayings and said they had no comment on whether the brown-haired youth made any statements.

Fuller offered no resistance when he was seized by police near the university in Charleston, which is some 10 miles east of Mattoon. Police said he was carrying a .22-caliber revolver.

Fuller, wearing cowboy boots, a green army jacket and white pants, was charged with five counts of murder in a preliminary appearance before Associate Judge William J. Sunderman of Circuit Court.

Police said Cox, a construction worker, and two elder sons were working on a truck several miles away from the two-story white frame farmhouse when the murders took place.

Student Anti-Protesters Cordon Off Occupied Sites at Columbia to Starve Out Demonstrators

NEW YORK (AP) — An impatient faction of the Columbia University student body tightened today a blockade aimed at choking off a protest by fellow students that has disrupted the Ivy League school for a week.

Columbia called off classes again as efforts continued to end the student sit-in at five buildings.

But some students eager for the school to return to normal formed what they called the Majority Coalition to end the protest and threw up a blockade around Low Memorial Library Sunday night.

They tightened it this morning, saying they were cutting off all food and medical supplies for about 100 protesters inside. About 200 students manned the blockade.

Campus in Disarray
As the sky lightened over Columbia on the seventh morning of the protest, the campus was in a state of disarray. Red flags flew from the roofs of two of the five occupied buildings. Several spots on campus had burned into a bivouac area.

A group of students awakened from spending a night in the open on the campus and began to brew coffee opposite the sundial near the library. Others did calisthenics in groups.

for and some against the sit-in stayed on campus throughout the night.

About 400 sit-in supporters either slept wrapped in blankets or sleeping bags, or sat talking quietly.

Occupied by SDS
Another 250 students, opposed to the sit-in, either slept or talked nearby in the center of the campus at the sun dial. A number of these helped faculty members patrol Low Memorial Library, being occupied by members of Students for a Democratic Society.

Both factions numbered many women.

Columbia's President Grayson R. Kirk announced late Sunday that the Ivy League school would be closed again today pending "discussions relating to a settlement of the present controversy," adding: "Normal operations will resume again as soon as possible."

The student protest, which began last Tuesday, led to suspension of night classes for three days last week and to suspension of day classes Friday.

School authorities estimate that 500 to 600 students are occupying the four campus buildings and Kirk's offices in Low Library.

The university's total enrollment is 27,500.

The protesters originally demanded halting of construction of a gymnasium on a portion of a Harlem park adjoining the university, and an end to Columbia's participation in a defense-oriented government research project.

Amnesty Demanded
The university stopped construction of the gym. However, the student rebels demanded amnesty for all demonstrators and an end to what they called the administration's "repressive rule."

At a meeting Sunday morning, the university's professors voted against granting amnesty to the demonstrators, echoing an earlier action by the Columbia board of trustees.

Paul Vilar, a senior pre-medical student, of Spring Valley, N.Y., formed over the weekend — with a handful of fellow students — a group called the Majority Coalition to oppose the sit-in. The movement rapidly gained in numbers.

SAIGON (AP) — Truong Dinh Dzu, the lawyer who finished second in South Vietnam's presidential election, is under police surveillance at a Saigon hospital and will be arrested when he is well again, the government said today.

The order to arrest Dzu came after he told newsmen that negotiations should be held with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front and a coalition government should be set up.

Dzu entered Saigon's St. Paul Hospital April 20, several days after being released from seven weeks of government detention. "As lawyer Dzu is seriously But President Nguyen Van Thieu reportedly said last week Dzu would be arrested, this with him to follow up all his actions."

The official Vietnam press, noting that Dzu was in the hospital, said "the chief of the special police division made known that the arrest order concerning lawyer Dzu will be carried out immediately after his recovery."

ABM System Might Be Used on Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's chief scientist has provided the first official acknowledgment that the $5 billion U.S. defense plan against any Red Chinese missiles also is a first step toward an anti-Soviet shield.

Dr. John S. Foster, director of Defense Research and Engineering, told the Senate Armed Services Committee the proposed antiballistic missile (ABM) system, called Sentinel, could be the foundation for an expanded defense against the Soviets.

Foster made clear, however, that current U.S. plans and capabilities are only to try to handle the rather rudimentary missiles Red China is expected to have in the early 1970s.

Small Numbers
Former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the same group the Sentinel system was technically capable of intercepting Soviet missiles but only in small numbers.

As he had repeatedly since last fall's announcement on the ABM decision, McNamara emphasized the anti-Chinese character of the system.

Testimony by both men came in early February but was publicly released only recently.

The issue came up when Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., asked Foster to explain why the administration seemed to be ignoring the Soviet missile threat while tackling a lesser Chinese threat.

Foster replied: "I believe that the action the United States is now taking is all the action the United States can take, whether in an attempt to stop an all-out Soviet attack, or whether to provide damage denial against a Chinese ICBM."

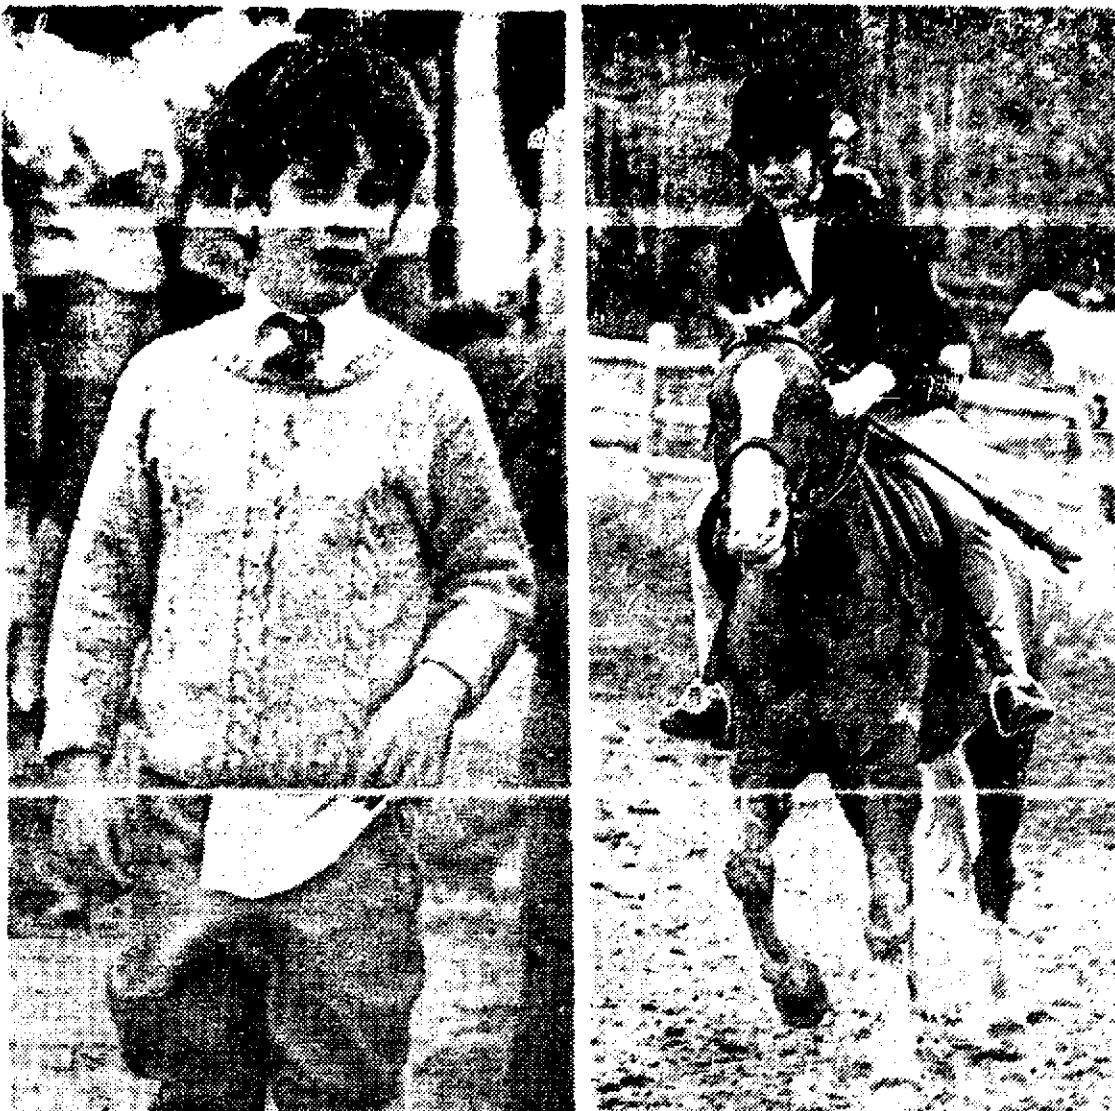

Symington: "But if I may say so, the Department of Defense specifically stated it was to protect us from China."

Foster: "That is correct, sir." Symington: "... Are you saying that actually it is the first step that we could take in protection against the Soviets?"

Foster: "The statement that was made by Mr. McNamara, and concurred in by Gen. (Earle G.) Wheeler was that this deployment is consistent with the first phase of a deployment against the Soviet Union."

Foster said he didn't recommend "thickening" the antimissile defense because the U.S. does not now possess the means of intercepting huge numbers of ICBM nor an adequate ability to sort electronically among clouds of chaff and dummy warheads which might surround Soviet missiles.

But he said Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, recommends going from the $5 billion system to an eventual shield that would provide specific protection for 50 major U.S. cities.

Leapfrog Into Troublespot

Move Into A Shau Valley Shows Versatility of GIs

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer

PHU BAI, Vietnam (AP) — The invasion of the A Shau Valley is another sign that U.S. forces in the northern war zone of South Vietnam have shifted from static defense to mobile offense.

The transfer earlier this year of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division to the northernmost provinces of Quang Tri and Thua Thien gave the Americans more mobility and more troops in the northern sector than they ever had.

The division, with up to 400 helicopters, provided the impetus for two major drives since April 1, leapfrogging men and artillery from troublespot to trouble spot.

Lifted Siege
Maj. Gen. John J. Tolson, commander of the 15,000-man 1st Air Cav, got his orders April 10 to move into the A Shau Valley. That was a week after the division had completed another major thrust, lifting the 77-day siege of the Marine fortress at Khe Sanh.

"That shows our versatility," said Tolson. "I've wanted to do it for a long time. It's a real fine application of the division."

The 25-mile-long valley has been the Communist command's biggest supply base in South Vietnam and a key infiltration route ever since North Vietnamese troops overran the A Shau special forces camp in March 1966.

Why did the U.S. Command wait two years before moving into the valley?

"There hasn't been a hell of a lot of troops," said Tolson.

Before the commitment of the 1st Air Cavalry Division to the northern provinces, only a division of Marines and another division of South Vietnamese infantrymen were holding the line of defense below the demilitarized zone.

Most of these troops were in static defensive position, at such outposts as Con Thien, the Rock Pile, Dong Ha, Gio Linh and Khe Sanh. The Marines always have been short of helicopters. The 1st Air Cavalry has plenty of them, including giant Chinooks and "flying cranes" that can lift 105mm and 155mm artillery pieces along with the men.

The invasion of the A Shau Valley, which parallels the Laotian border, appeared tailor made for the 1st Air Cavalry. The ability of the helicopters to land riflemen and huge artillery pieces on peaks at high as 5,000 feet dominating the valley made the difference.

The invasion into the valley began April 19. For three days before that, the division's helicopter reconnaissance arm scouted the valley pinpointing enemy gun positions for saturation strikes by the big B52 bombers. The reconnaissance teams also selected the landing zones for the invaders and the most favorable approach routes for the assault helicopters carrying them in.

Despite the intensive reconnaissance, enemy gunners using long-reaching antiaircraft fire destroyed or damaged about 30 helicopters in the first 24 hours of the invasion.

3 Days of Rioting Bring Strict Bermuda Curfew

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — A rigidly enforced curfew and 560 police and troops kept Bermuda quiet Sunday after three days of violence. Informed sources said the nightly curfew may stay on until after the resort island's general election May 23.

The 7 p.m.-to-dawn curfew also kept thousands of American tourists confined to their hotels, but most of them normally dine there anyway and spend the evening playing bingo or dancing in the hotel ballrooms. A detachment of 180 members of Britain's Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers arrived by plane Sunday night to help local forces quell any further outbreak of what the governor, Lord Mottistone, called the "hoodlumism" that swept this normally tranquil island.

The troops, sweltering in heavy woolen winter uniforms, have seen duty in Cyprus, Kuwait and Kenya. So far they have had little to do.

After rioting Thursday and Friday nights, there were four explosions and half a dozen minor blasts Saturday night but Sunday was without incident. Barbed wire barricades cut the coral roads, manned by police, firemen and troops of the Bermuda Regiment, both Negro and white.

The main violence occurred Thursday and Friday when 12 persons were injured and $250,000 worth of damage was done.

Officials here insist that the disturbances were neither racially nor politically motivated, although most of them were caused by marauding bands of Negro youths.

Alan Butterfield, a candidate for the legislature of the predominantly Negro Popular Labor party—the PLP—charged that the troubles were caused "by the limey cops' irresponsible actions" in putting down the first riot.

The predominantly white United Bermuda party has accused the PLP of making "inflammatory statements" in recent days. The PLP demands independence from Britain and wants to keep out Britons whom it claims take the better jobs here.

with Mercadier, but spoke only briefly. Mercadier responded only to written questions.

Mercadier said that for five years Cabrol and Guiraudon had been conducting experimental work on cardiac surgery and that plans had been ready since last January for a human heart transplant.

Mercadier said that the surgical team would have preferred to work without any publicity. Word of the operation leaked out, however, and newsmen flocked to the hospital.

Parents and other relatives of Gypsz and Roblain were in seclusion.

Robert Ouvrard, the concierge in the new seven-story apartment building where the Gypsz couple lived, said they had moved in three months ago.

"It was a wonderful thing to have done," he told a newsmen.

Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard, who headed a team that performed the previous successful heart operation in South Africa, said in Johannesburg he was pleased at the news.

Admits Surprise
"It seems that now that France has carried out its first heart transplant operation there will be a future for that type of operation from now on in that country," he said.

He was surprised, he said, because he knew the French were against heart transplants and the fact that they had changed their laws to enable surgeons to perform such operations was a good thing.

Told there were nervous system complications in the French operation he commented: "I don't understand why complications should have occurred."

Barnard's team performed the world's first operation in Cape Town Dec. 3 but the patient died. There have been three unsuccessful heart transplant operations in the United States and one in India.

Nigeria Unmoved By Biafra Offer For Negotiations

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The head of Nigeria's federal government has reacted coolly to secessionist Biafra's offer to open peace talks Wednesday in Senegal if a cease-fire is first on the agenda.

Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon said Sunday the Biafran leader, Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, must "show real and practical signs that he has given up secession before I agree to a cease-fire."

Gowon also said it was up to the Organization of African Unity to pick a site, and "we don't want to say we are fully committed" yet to Dakar, the Senegalese capital.

In the 10-month-old civil war, federal troops have encircled a part of Biafra densely populated by Ibos, the former Eastern region's predominant tribe, and are trying to seize Port Harcourt and the airfield there which is Biafra's last link with the outside world.

Boaters Ignore Stranded Man

SALTON CITY, Calif. (AP) — Adrift in a wrecked boat on the Salton Sea, his wife's body at his side, John D. Lairazolo waved frantically at other boats for 24 hours before being rescued.

Lairazolo and his wife Margaret were boating on the inland sea Friday when their 18-foot outboard craft struck a drifting plank. Lairazolo told authorities he was thrown into the water and knocked unconscious, but was kept afloat by a life jacket.

Swimming back to the boat, he found his wife's body caught beneath the craft. She apparently had fallen overboard and been struck in the back of the head by the boat's propeller.

Lairazolo tugged her back into the boat. He attracted help from other boaters late Saturday.

Fourth Czech Official Announced as Suicide

PRAGUE (AP) — Lt. Col. Josef Pocepicky, head of the Prague police investigation department, committed suicide while under medical treatment, the Interior Ministry announced today.

The brief announcement said Pocepicky was found hanged in the woods near the western Bohemian spa of Mariánské Lázně Saturday. An investigation is under way.

Pocepicky left behind farewell letters to his family, the announcement said without giving further details.

The suicide touched off a flurry of rumors in connection with a high-level probe against senior police officers suspected of involvement in the Stalinist terror trials of the late 1940's. It could not be established immediately whether Pocepicky also was under investigation.

His death was the fourth in a series of suicides of high-ranking Communist officials within two months.

One of them, Judge Josef Brestansky, was chief investigator in a probe against officials implicated in the trials. A former prison physician, Dr. Josef Sommer, committed suicide last week.

The deputy defense minister and commander of the land forces, Lt. Col. Vladimir Janko, shot himself in March shortly before he was to testify before a committee investigating leading officials of the Defense Ministry then headed by Gen. Bohumir Lomsky.

The Bar and Secret Trials

The highest tribunal in California had something of vital importance to say recently when it ruled that the public and the press cannot be excluded from criminal trials. A county judge had decreed secret sessions on 15 separate days in the trial of a man for murder and burglary.

Justice Macklin Fleming of the Court of Appeal wrote in his decision:

"The therapeutic functions of a public trial in reducing community tension, in superseding private vengeance, in restricting self-help, in eliminating the blood feud, in removing excuses for lynch and vigilante law, provide values which, perhaps, society has been inclined to take for granted in recent years, but which, since Watts, have again become visible elements in the administration of justice."

The court said the trial judge apparently relied on a recommendation of the American Bar Association's Reardon report on fair trial and free press. And it added: "That report, while entitled to the utmost consideration and respect, advances propositions for court rules and recommendations for legislation which, until adopted in a particular jurisdiction, do not have the force of law."

The Reardon report was adopted by the ABA in February of this year. In a period of two months it has created among lawyers, judges and law enforcement officials a high degree of confusion over what information they can give to the public and how to conduct criminal trials.

By the time the ABA gets around to incorporating the Reardon recommendations into its official canons next year, the report will have proved largely unworkable.

The Delay on Soldiers Square

The unnecessary delay in carrying out the second and final phase of Soldiers Square reconstruction and beautification must be judged for what it is — procrastination on the part of some city officials and property owners.

It is no wonder that one of the new members of the City Council inquired the other night what has become of the pedestrian walk project which has been listed as one of the important, but least expensive, phases of the central business district plan.

The original intent of the Council was to construct the new Soldiers Square Parking Ramp, and then shortly afterwards, turn the remainder of the somewhat dismal and rundown Square into a pedestrian area, completely landscaped so as to provide a park atmosphere in the center of the downtown.

Somewhere along the line the $50,000 to $75,000 project got sidetracked in revising the city's five-year capital improvement plan, mostly because storekeepers whose building back entrances face the Soldiers Square, complained that an estimated 20 or so street level metered parking spaces would have to be eliminated. It does seem ridiculous on the face of things, considering that only several feet away is the modern multi-level ramp which has a capacity of 452 cars.

Granted there are a few engineering problems connected with dressing up Soldiers Square and finishing the job but it does seem penny-wise and pound-foolish to build a ramp for more than a million dollars and then hold off on a minor construction and beautification project next door.

The Common Council and some balking businessmen should take another hard look at the timetable for conversion of Soldiers Square into a pedestrian walk so the work can be accomplished within the coming months.

Civic groups have indicated willingness to make contributions toward repairing and dressing up the Soldiers Square Memorial, along with underwriting of some of the cost of decorative water fountains. There is no legitimate reason for delaying the project any longer.

Protest Is One Thing, Anarchy Another

The growing demands of college and university students for more participation in the administration and planning of their institutions is beginning to get out of hand.

Few deny that increasingly students should have that participation. Almost all institutions in the country are extending it and not only in matters that directly concern the student in his non-academic affairs. Many educators are conceding that the student should have a role in planning, in the choice of at least some campus officials, in building programs and even in curriculum. While the student obviously is not qualified to make final determinations, his ideas should be sought and heard.

But that phenomenon of the sixties, the protest demonstration, is increasingly being used not to emphasize a point of view but to silence all others. More radical and leftwing organizations which may actually intend to find reforms completely out of the normal democratic procedures are often the sponsors of the sit-downs which prevent students from attending class and officials from leaving or entering buildings. Such action should and must be sternly opposed by authorities. Preventing others from going about their quite legitimate business is a denial of all the rights the protestors are supposed to be upholding.

Some of the protests appear to be far removed from policies that directly affect students. At Columbia, the main protest was against the construction of a new university gymnasium because the site is a park which it is claimed can be used for recreational purposes by Negroes in the area. However, it appears that the park is seldom used and primarily because of the dangers of muggings, rape and robbery of whites or blacks who frequent it. The Columbia demonstrators, a small minority of those on campus, were also protesting the use by the university of several banks which loan money to the Republic of South Africa. This may be an indication of student effort to avoid hypocrisy but it seems somewhat far afield. Surely there must be conditions in the neighborhood of Columbia that cry for remedy far more than do the banks' dealings with South Africa and which the students could actually influence more than they can the apartheid policies.

At Trinity College in Connecticut, quite reasonable proposals for more scholarships for Negroes and courses in African culture and the psychology of the ghetto were threatened when students locked trustees and administrators in a building for twenty-four hours. Such action in fact almost seemed to be arranged to give the impression that the students were responsible for efforts to recruit more Negro students, a policy which the college had already adopted and was putting into practice. In other institutions there have been similar incidents in protests over firing of faculty members, expulsion of students and hours for women students. But changes or reviews could certainly come from legitimate requests. The threat of violence and the restraining of officials, as well as the denial of opinion to other students, should not be condoned.

We rather suspect that some of the students protesting in this way are seeking a comfortable sort of martyrdom. If they are expelled, they can gain the sympathy of other students who may now be hostile. If the police are called, they can protest about lack of responsibility on the campus. The overall results are not likely to be so much really needed reforms or attention to neglected areas but a serious threat to peaceful and democratic procedures for change. It's time that other students and faculty members, who make up the vast majority of those on campus, spoke out against demonstrations that lead only to anarchy.

Looking Backward

No Wonder Prophecy Came True

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for April 23, 1868.

Andrew Johnson and his coadjutors are becoming exceedingly prophetic.

When Congress took the matter of reconstruction in hand, and declared that their paramount object should be to protect the rights of all loyal men in the South, whether white or black, against the fury of unrepentant rebels, Andrew Johnson and his God-forsaken hirelings of the rebel press, both north and south, raised the hue and cry of the war of the races.

When the illiterate vagabond of the White House became defeated in his rebel plots, and the fact became clearly evident that the rights of all was the leading principle by which our national legislature was being guided, then the secret midnight maraudings and murders of Union men by the Ku Klux Klan was commenced.

This they told us was the result of their prediction, and that now the war of the races was fairly entered upon. But why the accurate result of this Copperhead prophecy?

Simply this: that it was previously organized under the direct auspices of Andrew Johnson and his horde of rebel followers!

Kraft Writes

Indiana Has Joined Mainstream, Old Politics Don't Work Any More

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — The decisive thing for the Indiana primary of May 7 is not what the candidates have been doing in the past few days. It is what the state has been doing in the past few years.

For, in Indiana, one of the last backwaters in the country has finally entered the mainstream, and the consequences are not favorable to the old organization politics being played by Governor Roger Branigan, the Hoosier favorite son who is trying to hold the state for Vice President Hubert Humphrey against the challenges of Robert Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy.

Until very recently, to be sure, the modern America of Kennedy and McCarthy had bypassed the Hoosier state. Indiana had been populated less by immigrant masses from Europe than by migrants from Appalachia — itself a backwater. Not big cities, but medium-sized towns — Indianapolis, Evansville, Terre Haute, Muncie, Vincennes, Fort Wayne — were dominant.

FAMILY FIRMS

These communities were, in turn, dominated by medium-sized family firms. The Indiana gentry were the Ball brothers who made mason jars in Muncie, the Studebakers who built wagons in South Bend, the Mead Johnson family who processed food in Evansville, the Cummins family who built engines in Columbus, and the Lillies who mixed drugs in Indianapolis.

Like gentry everywhere, these fostered cultural pursuits. Hence the Indiana literary tradition of Booth Tarkington, George Ade, Theodore Dreiser (whose brother wrote the state anthem, "On the Banks of the Wabash"), James Whitcomb Riley, and the Bobbs Merrill publishing house. Hence also Cole Porter, the scion of a banking family in Peru, Indiana, and Hoagy Carmichael, the musical refrain of Riley's poetry.

But isolation from the mainstream also bred a hostile attitude toward the modern world which found expression in race and national chauvinism. Indiana was dominated by the Ku Klux Klan in the 1920s. Thanks to huge outlays of state funds, Indianapolis has become the headquarters of the American Legion and the downtown area, featuring a war memorial park, looks like a salute to Mars.

The political expression of these attitudes was Republicanism of the old, conservative and isolationist stripe. In Presidential elections from 1900 through 1960, Indiana gave the Democrats a majority only in 1932 and 1936. Recently, the foremost Repub-

General Motors, General Electric, International Harvester, Ford, Chrysler, and RCA.

These companies have not only brought in new workers, including Negroes. They have replaced the old elites with new managers. And the young managers are not at all partial to the small-town provincialism of yore.

The result has been a kind of political renaissance in both parties. On the Democratic side the isolated victories won by Senator Vance Hartke in 1958 and Governor Matthew Welsh in 1960 have been solidified by a group of articulate and intelligent young men. These include Senator Birch Bayh and Congressmen John Brademas, Andrew Jacobs, and Lee Hamilton.

The Republicans are catching up. Last year a 35-year-old former Rhodes scholar, Richard Lugar, became the first Catholic they have ever put up for statewide office—William Ruckelshaus, a lawyer out of Princeton and Harvard who is still under 40.

No doubt it is still early for making predictions. Particularly in this year of sour tea leaves. But Kennedy and McCarthy, intelligent and cosmopolitan, are in the tradition of the recent winners in Indiana. For Branigan to win, the regular Democratic organization will have to go all out. And an all-out effort by the organization, as a subsequent report will show, is by no means certain.

Kraft

licans have been the stand-pat former House Leader, Charles Halleck, and the right-wing Senators William Jenner and Homer Capehart.

The Democrats seemed as much under the conservative spell as the Republicans. As late as 1962 the Reader's Digest could praise a Democratic mayor of Indianapolis for refusing all federal aid — even for flood control. Governor Branigan, who was elected in the Johnson sweep in 1964, is a small-town lawyer with a taste for drinks at the country club and a distaste for TV, newspapers, and airplanes, not to mention Negroes and unions.

At all times, to be sure, there had been an exception to this pattern in the steel towns east of Chicago along the lake shore of Indiana. The big new change is that the exception has become generalized.

FIRMS TAKEN OVER

Almost everywhere, the family firms have been taken over by the giant corporations. The large employers now are

Ask King Supporters To Housing Meeting

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Several hundred people paid tribute to Martin Luther King by coming to the memorial service at the Lawrence University chapel. Now, will they continue to honor him as he would most wish, by using every opportunity to support the cause for which he died? Nearest and most immediate for us in the Fox Valley are proposals for local fair housing ordinances. With passage of a federal act, the whole picture has changed: instead of having to take initiative into a controversial policy area, it has now become a matter of state and local governments bringing their statutes into conformity with action taken at a higher level.

Whether state or community acts first, the important thing, as the mayor of Madison told the Alliance of Cities, is that communities pass ordinances to put the power of implementation in their own hands. As this has worked out in Madison, it makes for speedy, fair settlements by a conciliation committees of local people, close to the situation. Judgments there have been made impartially, now in favor of a complainant, now a defendant. The presence of the ordinance, concurred in by the public and the real estate industry of Madison, has reduced cases of discrimination because of race, and most of these have been resolved by friendly mediation, without court action. An ordinance also makes clear a moral commitment by the community.

Alderman Dorothy Draheim has proposed such an ordinance to the Appleton City Council. All well-wishers of Martin Luther King should come to the public meeting, Tuesday, April 30th, at 8 p.m., in the downstairs meeting hall of the Outagamie Bank on S. State street. Mr. Alan Dale, on the staff of the Equal Rights Division of the State Commission on Industry, Labor and Human Relations, will clarify the picture. Then each of us will be a better position to take the next step, which is to inform his alderman of his opinion.

Leonard Is Favorite To Win Endorsement For Senate Campaign

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The line-up of Republican U.S. senatorial aspirants had abruptly changed since this department a week ago suggested that the May convention of the party appeared likely to have a wide range of choices with respect to the philosophical shadings of the men then evidently involved.

But Wilbur Renk has disavowed any interest in the senate contest this year and Talbot Peterson, former party chairman, has evidently decided that he won't make a campaign for convention endorsement in spite of the energetic solicitation of convention delegate support on his behalf by some of his Appleton friends. Whether he means to leave the door open to a draft remains to be seen. But as this dispatch has observed earlier, the legitimate draft in politics is so rare as to be irrelevant to practical political planning and analysis.

Thus the party, when its delegates come to Madison on May 25, will have before it the names of two declared candidates, State Sen. Jerris Leonard of suburban Milwaukee, and Donald Tewes of Waukeesh, who served a term in the House of Representatives from the old Second District nearly a decade ago.

THE OUTLOOK

Leonard came into the race early and has been busy for weeks scouting the countryside for county delegation support. Tewes evidently spent a good deal of time deliberating the outlook before he made his announcement, fairly late, as such matters are usually measured.

On the face of it, Leonard should be the favorite for the convention backing. While members of the legislature are far less known outside their own neighborhoods than many of them like to think, Leonard has had considerable prominence in Republican affairs as the chief Senate spokesman for the Republicans, as an energetic man in debate and parliamentary maneuver, as a principal officer of the state building commission, and, to be frank about it, as one of the most frequent targets for the critical shafts of the partisan opposition.

Former Rep. Tewes is no doubt well and favorably regarded in his own populous neighborhood, but his identity as a congressman in the past is probably not well remembered by many of the party workers. Moreover, Leonard after his early start probably has the backing of most of the district leaders of the party by this time, which very likely was a factor in the Peterson decision. Legislators are usually prominent in the endorsement convention hall and, strategically distributed as they will be in about two-thirds of the county delegations, they can lend a forceful hand in persuading uncertain rank and file delegates to get into the Leonard corner.

THE FALL FIGHT

If the endorsement and nomination of the youthful Milwaukee lawyer and combative politician is assumed, his problem in confronting Sen. Gaylord Nelson will be one of identification by the voters.

Such matters are sometimes reluctantly acknowledged by persons who uphold the Jeffersonian ideal that every voter solemnly deliberates and studies and casts his vote in an informed way.

The facts are otherwise, as the professionals know. The familiarity of a name, all other things being equal in a political campaign, is an enormous advantage.

Leonard has never run for statewide office. He has held a modest forum for statewide publicity for only a short time. Sen. Nelson, the man he would try to unhorse, has run for statewide office successfully three times and has had a more shrewdly conceived program of personal publicity than any present Wisconsin member of the United States Congress. The question in some Republican minds will be whether it will be worthwhile to give all-out support to a Republican nominee who probably won't be the favorite to win.

For those with such reservations, the question will be to protect a viable party by encouraging an energetic and able representative of its cause, notwithstanding.

There will be other tickets in other years, as Leonard at the enviable age of 38 has doubtless reminded himself in the contemplation of his ambitious and perhaps unattainable 1968 purpose.

Harris Columns Are Printed in New Book

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A new book called "Leaving the Surface" has been sent to my desk by the publisher (Houghton Mifflin Co.) It was published last week, and is the fifth book of collected columns by Sydney J. Harris.

I can save you a good bit of

money ($5.95) by telling you whether or not you will like this book. Just give yourself the following simple test:

1. Do you believe that organized warfare is an "inevitable" component of human society?
2. Are you convinced that the Negroes are mainly responsible for the plight they are in?
3. Do you believe that people can solve most of their personal problems by an application of "will power"?
4. Are you dismayed by the antics and demonstrations at so many of the nation's colleges and universities?
5. Do you feel that "foreigners" would be better people if they were more like Americans?
6. Are you convinced that the "Communist conspiracy" is the greatest menace facing the world today?
7. Do you feel that the new sexual code — lack of one — is leading us to moral decay and corruption?
8. Do you believe that churches have no business taking an active stand on matters of social policy, such as war, race, poverty and jurisprudence?

9. Do you deplore the "chaos" we are in, and yearn for the "stability" of our parents' time?

10. Do you feel that the more we build up our armaments, the more "secure" we become from attack or aggression?

If you have answered more than five of these questions with "Yes," then the book is not for you. It will only annoy and infuriate you, without changing your opinions in the slightest.

If you have given "Yes" answers to fewer than five of the questions, then you may find some redeeming features in its pages, and the book might help alter your convictions about some matters.

And if you have answered "No" to all 10 questions, then you obviously don't need the book at all — except to send to friends who violently disagree with you, if you want to turn them into ex-friends.

This is the most honest review I can write about "Leaving the Surface." Maybe it won't sell copies, as the publisher would like, but it will save some people's money and other people's feelings. What other author can say as much?

Contact Usual Cause Of Venereal Disease

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have asked this question of several professionals and they have given a positive no. But several friends argue otherwise, so would you please enlighten us as to the facts: Can a man or woman become infected by the gonococcus germ any other way than sexual intercourse is the one way in which an adult is most likely to contract gonorrhea, and anyone who realizes this takes with a grain of salt the explanation that "I must have gotten it from a toilet seat," or any such excuse. Why is this so? Because the gonococcus germ dies promptly when it becomes dry. It can survive in a moist place for several hours. Studies indicate that there is upward of a 60 per cent chance of getting the disease from a single intercourse with an infected person — a high risk, but under such conditions the germs are transferred from one moist mucous surface to another directly. That — for the germs — is the ideal means of transfer. For the germs to be transmitted in any other way, you would have to have a rather unusual set of circumstances — the germs deposited on a moist surface, and then in some manner picked up, within a limited time, and deposited on a suitably moist portion of the body. Practically, that would mean on a mucous surface. The chance of this happening with an adult is remote indeed, and that is why we say that, for practical purposes, sexual intercourse is the only likely way it will happen. In the above I have stressed through sexual intercourse? If so, under what conditions? — J.

Gonorrhea (like syphilis, the other important venereal disease) is transmitted by transfer of a germ from one person to another.

The exact manner in which the germ is transferred is not the vital question. By whatever mode, if the live germ reaches a part of the body where the germ can survive and multiply, it can cause the disease.

For all practical purposes,

"Golly, what makes Miss Franks think we should WORRY about graduating and going out into a man's world?"

adults. That is what your letter stipulated. But the warning should be spread as widely as possible that an adult with a venereal disease should be very, very careful around the home.

These germs can be transmitted to babies and small children, especially to small girls. An adult with the infection should have as little contact with small children in the family as is possible, until the disease has been treated and the doctor says the risk of infection is past. Obviously, this means that an adult with an active infection should not feed, bathe, or cuddle youngsters. He should also, of course, use only his own towels and linen and should let no one else use his.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard the pros and cons about putting fluoride in the drinking water. I am a coronary patient, and a friend showed me some books saying that fluoride is harmful for heart patients. — Mrs. M. H.

Extensive studies have not shown any ill effects on the heart.

Dear Dr. Molner: The middle finger of my right hand stays cold all the time, and in the winter it nearly freezes off. What could cause this and can anything be done? — R.S.B.

The finger may have been injured — or it may have been frostbitten, leaving it susceptible to cold. In cases with which I am familiar, little has been of help except to keep the finger warm with glove or mitten. (Copyright, 1968)

Here's a New Way to Make A Box Look Really Nice

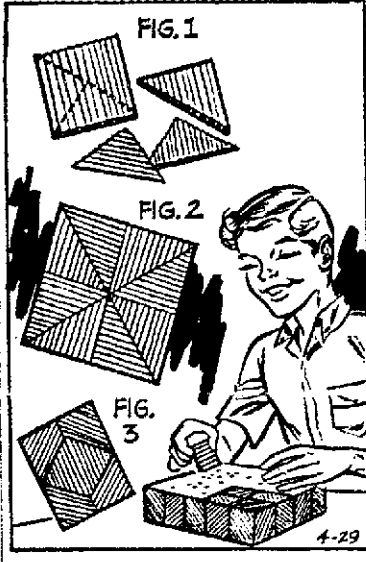

BY CAPPY DICK

Corrugated paper is ribbed on one side and smooth on the other because the ribs are covered with flat paper. The ribbed effect makes this special paper effective as a covering for small cardboard boxes that can be turned into containers for handkerchiefs or curios.

The adjoining illustration above shows some of the results to be achieved by combining squares and triangles somewhat like floor tiles are laid in a kitchen.

The first step is to cut the corrugated paper into small squares, all the same size. Use a pencil and ruler to mark where the cuts should be made. The squares should not be larger than one or two inches, depending upon the size of the object to be covered. The inlay may be made with

Pickets Call Churches Racist

CHICAGO (AP) — White demonstrators picketed two North Side churches during services Sunday in a protest against what they called racism in all-white churches.

About a dozen pickets marched outside the United Methodist Parish of the Holy Covenant and the Lincoln Park Presbyterian Church. Some marchers carried placards saying, "Confess Your Racism," "The Church is Racist" and "11 a.m.—the Hour of White Racism."

The Rev. Robert J. Harman, who joined the marchers before and after services, and the Rev. William H. Taylor delivered words against racism.

When the gluing has been completed, a coat or two of shellac applied to the corrugated ribs will make them shiny.

Madison Girl Dies in Blaze

MADISON (AP) — An 11-year-old girl died in a fire that swept her home Saturday while neighbors and members of her family made efforts to reach the room in which she was trapped. The victim was Gina Kendrick, one of seven children of Mrs. Ola Mae Kendrick, who was absent when fire broke out in the two-story frame dwelling. Gina was trapped on the second floor.

Her brothers and sisters threw rocks through windows in an effort to help her find a way to safety. Walter Lee King, 18, raised a ladder to a second-story window, but was driven back by flames.

Two men reached the roof of the dwelling. An explosion-like swirl of fire forced them to flee.

Guards Won't Load Weapons During Riots Without Special Order

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin National Guardsmen could be on duty on municipal streets within four hours after being alerted to an emergency, guard spokesmen said Sunday.

The guardsmen, however, will not put ammunition into their weapons unless instructed by a commander of emergency operations, and only military policemen working in pairs would carry Mace—a chemical spray which temporarily immobilizes its victim.

The guard methods of operation were outlined at a news conference designed to keep the

The body of Dale Kluewer, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert Kluewer of rural Hartford, was found in about nine feet of water.

He was among approximately 20 young persons from St. Olaf's Church, Rubicon.

Growth Rate Most Vital in Stock Pricing

Smaller IBM Worth
More Than Gigantic
But Stable AT&T

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you were to purchase all the shares of American Telephone, which has assets of $46.8 billion, and International Business Machines, which has assets of $5.6 billion, for which would you pay the most?

Since you suspect the answer isn't the seemingly obvious one, here are the straight facts, based on prices early this week: for IBM you would pay $36.7 billion, for AT&T $27.06 billion.

Stated another way, for a company with one-eighth the assets of AT&T you would pay between $9 billion and $10 billion more, an amount that would help solve the U.S. Treasury's problems.

The point is this: in the stock market it isn't how big you are that counts; it's how fast you're growing.

Impossible Situation
Naturally the situation is completely hypothetical. Even if you had that kind of cash you wouldn't be able to make such huge purchases. When word got out that you were in the market those prices would soar.

But this paradox in prices points up some of the psychology involved in today's stock market. What seems all important in the market, especially in the past few years, is a company's growth possibilities.

IBM is a swiftly growing outfit. Its earnings growth is at a rate of more than 14 per cent a year. Last year its profits rose $125 million to $651.5 million. With such a swift growth rate, buyers fight for a piece of the action.

As a result, a price-earnings ratio of about 50 is commonly placed on IBM shares. That means it sells for 40, 50 or 60 times its per share earnings, which in 1967 were $11.61. Its price at the opening Tuesday was $655.

Smaller Earnings Ratio
AT&T once was in enormous demand also, but now it is a huge operation and growing steadily but slowly in comparison with some of the glamor companies. Its price-earnings ratio, therefore, is around 12 or 13. It sold for $50 this week.

Although in theory the purchasers of stock always are taking risks with their futures, this attitude becomes more pronounced during periods of sustained economic expansion, such as this nation has had for seven years.

During this time there also has been an outburst of new technology, the result of billions poured into research and development in the 1950s. Taking commercial advantage of these new products and methods, some companies have been transformed from small private enterprises into enormous, publicly held corporations.

Polaroid Growth
Polaroid Corp. is often cited as an example of this. In 1955, when it already was well on its way, the photographic products company reported profits of $2.4 million. In 1967 profits were 24 times greater at $57.4 million.

Nevertheless, scores of very successful companies are larger than Polaroid by almost any measure — sales, number of employees, assets.

Based on share value, the most valuable firms today are IBM, AT&T, General Motors, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Eastman Kodak, Texaco, Sears, General Electric, Gulf and Du Pont.

When IBM moved into first place in value of shares last year, although its assets made it only the ninth largest corporation, the entire business of shares prices came in for scrutiny.

Analysts and traders won-

Anti-Littering Proposal

'Throw-Away' Bottles Target of Legislators

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature will hold a hearing on a bill to require breweries and distributors of beer to offer to redeem empty bottles and cans at a penny apiece as a means of discouraging the increasing litter along roadsides and in lakes and streams.

The decision was made by the Interim Committee on Conservation of the legislature, in spite of a message from a Colorado beermaker who experimented with such a plan, won national publicity for the idea, but then dropped it because of what he called "insurmountable obstacles."

Chairman Paul Alfonsi of the committee said he will hold the hearing, at a time not yet set, at the request of Assemblyman Norman Anderson of Madison who has such legislation now before the legislature.

Alfonsi said the general public would be invited to comment on the plan, and that the "public" included the brewing firms in this brewing capital of the nation.

Soft Drinks, Too
Some members of the committee suggested that other refreshment containers, such as cans and bottles used for soft drinks, should also be included in the bill if it is seriously considered.

Several other members appeared skeptical about the practicability of the redemption idea.

KAUKAUNA — Tools, valued at over $300, were reported stolen from a house under construction on Kenneth Avenue by Edwin Nimmer, 115 Idlewild St., the builder.

Nimmer reported the theft of a planer valued at $175, and two electric saws valued at $170.

dered aloud and in print if the market was becoming distorted. The shock accompanying the displacement of A&T, the most royal blue of the blue chips, was a signal to stop and reflect.

With this period of reflection now several months along or over, prices of some growth stocks still are volatile. Many brokers and traders seem willing to assign huge price earnings ratios. They are confident that yesterday's growth is the surest indication of tomorrow's size.

They could be right. At least they have the courage to put their money in back of their words. However, the downside risks in high price-earnings ratios is a little chilling sometimes.

Eight-Year-Old Enjoys Telling About Novel Place of Birth

BY ANN LANDERS
 DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter for "Chevvie" to read. It might make him feel better. "Chevvie" is the boy who was mad because his mother was always late getting places, in fact she was so late getting to the hospital to give birth to him he was born in a taxi.

My name is Steven. I am 8 years old. I was born in a rented car on the New Orleans Expressway. It was my mother's second trip to the hospital in two hours. The doctor said I wasn't ready to be born yet, but the doctor was wrong and my dad had to rush my mother to the hospital a short time later.

I am proud of being born in a car, and I am saving the newspaper clippings to show my children. Also my birth certificate says, "Born in a station wagon on the New Orleans Expressway." Not many kids have something like that to brag about. "Chevvie" should be proud, not mad. — Steven

Dear Steven: I agree you're a boy of distinction and you'll never be at a loss when the conversation lags. But I imagine your mother wishes the doctor had tried harder, and not put you in the driver's seat.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I must be the unhappiest teenager in the world. Please help me if you can. My parents hate each other. The atmosphere in this house is so thick you could cut it with a knife. My father never says a word. My mother doesn't shut her mouth. Most of my father's paycheck goes on my mother's back. She dresses like a fashion model and has been going to night school for as long as I can remember, just to get away from the house.

The biggest problem is my sister. She is not right mentally and is treated just awful. This girl should be in a special place for people like her, but my father says he doesn't have the money to send her there. I know it would be better for my sis as well as for everyone in the family if she were in a place where she could get some help. Since my parents won't do anything I am writing to ask if there is anything I can do. Please print your reply because my mother opens every scrap of mail that comes to this house and if she doesn't like what it says it goes into the garbage. Thank you, Ann. — Sister in Saginaw

Dear Sister: Your best bet is to discuss this problem with your school counselor or your favorite teacher. An adult, someone to whom your parents might listen, should intercede in behalf of your sister. There are many agencies that could help and the counselor will surely know of them. Please let me know what happens. I'll keep my fingers crossed, Honey.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My brother is 28 years old and acts like a 10-year-old kid. He has a habit of getting mad crushes on girls and he always picks the gold-digger types who take him but good. This fool has borrowed $350 from me since November and I know all the money went for girlie gifts. He thinks he is being generous. I say he is a jerk. What do you say? Please give him some advice. — Empty Pockets

Dear Empty Pockets—with a head to match: Of course he is a jerk, but that's his problem and you shouldn't allow it to be yours. Don't lend your brother another dime. If he wants advice from me I'll give it to him, if and when he asks for it.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated: Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bad Trump Break Does No Harm

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
 A friend of mine recently decided to take up pinochle instead of bridge. The trouble was that he made this decision while he was in the middle of the play of today's hand.

West led a trump, and East's diamond discard at the first trick made it clear that West had more trumps than either the dummy or declarer. South studied the hand carefully and decided that he didn't have the faintest notion of how to play it. "You have" to get a trump trick," South finally announced to West. "I'm sure I can make the rest."

"It's a deal," West agreed. And he hastily mixed the cards together and entered the score before South had any second thoughts. Play Is Simple Oddly enough, South might have made his grand slam if he had played the hand out instead of conceding a trick. Despite the 5-0 trump break South can make the slam by not trying to take more than three tricks in any side suit. Declarer wins the first trick in dummy with the nine of spades and cashes the king and queen of diamonds, followed by the top hearts and the queen and king of clubs. South then leads the ace of clubs, intending to overruff in dummy if West ruffs. West actually follows suit to the third club, and South has the pleasure of discarding dummy's ace of diamonds on his own ace of clubs. South then ruffs a diamond in dummy, ruffs a heart with the ace of trumps, ruffs a club in dummy and ruffs dummy's last heart with the jack of trumps. Dummy's top trump wins the last trick, and South scores plus 2,210 instead of minus 100 points. That sounds better even to a pinochle player.

Daily Question
 Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S—None; H—Q 10 8 7; D—J 8 7 5 2; C—J 9 8 4. What do you say?
 Answer: Bid two hearts. You count 4 points for high cards and 5 points for the void suit (when the hand contains good trump support for partner's suit). This is ample for a raise. If partner had opened with one spade, your void in spades would be a liability rather than an asset, and you would pass instead of responding.

Lovelier You

Ideal Bosom

Uplift and firm tone are the main factors in an ideal bosom-line. And ideally, the highrise is on a level with the center of the upper arm.
 When a bosom falls below that mark and also loses tone, there is every indication that the supporting muscles have gone slack. This is most likely to happen in mature years. But it may be triggered at any time by large gains or losses in weight.

Today's routine acts to strengthen the muscles, whatever the cause of weakness. Strong muscles bring about a firm or more youthful line. Here's the procedure:
 1. Stand erect and stretch arms to sides at shoulder level. S-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g hard, describe large circles as fast possible. The bigger and faster, the better. Continue for one minute.
 2. Stand with arms down at sides. Briskly fling arms straight up and back; at end of reach, clap hands. Immediately swing arms down to reach behind hips, then clap again. Repeat for 20 counts.
 3. (Equipment — child's large rubber ball.) Grasp ball on opposite sides and hold it against forehead. With elbows up and out, press ball with hands for 10 slow counts. Repeat five times, relaxing as necessary. Improvement takes time. Only work faithfully and it will come.

Historical Time Barriers Fall at Fair

BY MALIA PENIKS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A school fair is a special event. It is not only an exhibit of a child's progress, imagination and ability but a display of the fact that education today is limitless — a kaleidoscope of courses.

Such was the annual fair last week at St. Pius X Catholic School, where 600 youngsters proudly displayed their work to parents and friends.

A collage of colors adorned each of the 20 rooms, decorated with great care, by projects completed during the year.

Though color and art work dominated the rooms, it was evident that both had been used simply as vehicles to attract the children's interests in subjects that go deeper than that.

Barriers Come Down

Barriers to history and time were removed as a study of the medieval period and World War II commenced through the class year. The end result in one class was a paper castle which had demanded research on costumes, customs, construction and color of that era.

Another grade had models of planes and U-boats, wrapping history, art, geography and reading into one project, and giving meaning to a time that had seemed like ancient history to seventh graders.

A trip through the Kimberly-Clark Mill had produced an eighth grade display of processing of paper from pulp to its final form. It could have been done in a classroom study, but how much better, more meaningful and interesting it had been to tour a plant where the sound of the saws could be heard.

The world, an incomprehensible area to a fourth grade mind, became smaller as they took a trip around it, stopping in faraway lands to explore the problems and products of the countries.

Children Touch Mountains

Postage stamps, taken from letters received from many areas of the world, dotted a world map made by the fifth grade. On such a map, the mountains of Switzerland and the swamps of Vietnam can be touched.

Potted flowers made of colored paper and foil by the little hands of the fourth graders, muted decorations fashioned from egg cartons, to complement the bright murals of multi-colored wool yarn which cheerily adorned other rooms. Life was brought to spring flowers and young imaginations were exercised.

Birds, flowers and lanterns, strung together to form mobiles, were hung from the lamps, making other rooms look like Japanese gardens.

Maps, posters and science projects all were a part of the various projects, showing that class work, if presented correctly, is enjoyable.

A holiday tree, depicting the different events of each month and customs from other lands and projects associated with religion all had their place; all helped to make the surroundings and the child's concept of life, his gifts from God and his association with others more meaningful.

And that's the purpose of such a fair.

Mrs. Edwin Olson in Chicago League of Women Voters Open National Conclave

Mrs. Edwin Olson, president of the Appleton League of Women Voters, is attending as a delegate the 28th annual national convention of the League which opened today in Chicago. The convention will run through Friday at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Mrs. Walter Wiekert and Mrs. Donald Severson will attend as observers for the Appleton League.

On the basis of these recommendations the national board submits a proposed program to local and state leagues.

Stretch Food Dollar With Economy Cuts

Buying meat takes about one-third of each dollar spent for food. By knowing grades of meat and selecting economical meat cuts, you can cut the cost of food, according to Rosemary Stare, consumer marketing specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

Meat prices vary throughout the year. The price of meat is usually determined by the quality of meat available and the customer demand for it. More tender, desirable and seasonally popular cuts are usually the more expensive.

USDA grade indicates tenderness and juiciness. Beef, veal and lamb are graded Prime, Choice and Good. Two other grades, standard and commercial are not readily available in the market. Choice is the grade you'll find most often. Good grade is less expensive and when properly cooked can be tender and juicy. It also has the same quality protein and the same food value as the higher priced grades. Prime is generally bought by fine restaurants.

Economical Eating

Economical beef and veal cuts are flank, plate, brisket and foreshank. These are less tender cuts and need to be cooked slowly with moist heat. Over-cooking causes a loss of weight and juices.

Nothing surpasses ground beef when it comes to stretching the dollar.

Tarrs Will Honor Guests At Reception

Lawrence University and Milwaukee-Dowder College alumni, parents and friends will be guests of Lawrence President and Mrs. Curtis W. Tarr at a reception from 4:30 to 7 p.m. Friday in the Venetian Room of the Astor Hotel, Milwaukee.

Honored guests on the occasion will be Lawrence Dean and Mrs. Francis L. Broderick; Dr. and Mrs. Walter F. Peterson; and Mr. and Mrs. John McN. Rosebush.

Dr. Peterson was chairman of social sciences at Milwaukee-Dowder before the school's merger with Lawrence in 1964. He now holds Lawrence's Alice G. Chapman chair in librarianship.

Mr. Rosebush is alumni and development director for the university.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Frank E. Roberts, 2424 N. 66th St., Milwaukee.

meat dollar and providing variety. You can serve a different ground meat dish every day of the year without repetition. Serve it as meat balls, meat loaves, casseroles and sauces.

Economical pork cuts are Boston butt, picnic, ham hocks and pork steaks. You can get as many as three different meals from a 6-pound fresh Boston butt. It can be cut to yield a boneless roast, four pork steaks and a casserole or creamed pork dish.

Variety meats also offer economical eating. Liver, heart, tongue, sweetbreads and brains are the most familiar variety meats. Because they're in less demand, variety meats are about one-third the price of other economical meat cuts. There is little waste in variety meats.

Comparing price per serving is a realistic guide to economical choices. Remember that boneless meats yield three to five servings per pound. Cuts with some bone will serve two to three, and meat with a large amount of bone serves one to two persons per pound.

Some grocery stores have low-cost meats on their counters, so don't be afraid to ask the butcher about them. Also remember to read the food advertisements in shopping guides and newspapers.

Most food stores "specialize" one or more meat cuts each week. These usually represent good values and a savings of 10 to 20 cents per pound, Mrs. Stare says.

Law Must Change in Progressive Society

BY CAROL HANSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — "Law is simply a basic set of rules to govern relationships of people," E. Harold Hallows, chief justice of the Wisconsin Supreme Court told a gathering of legal secretaries at their first annual state convention at the Holiday Inn Saturday evening. This was the climax of a full day of programs which included workshops, a business session, a noon luncheon and style show.

Reviewing law from early times until the present, Justice Hallows said even before God gave Moses the Ten Commandments, which have been the basis of law since that time, laws existed in the form of unwritten customs.

"It was the Romans with their flare for organization and law who finally in the fifth century set down a code of rules of conduct known as the Justinian Code. It prevailed throughout Europe (with the exception of England) until the fall of the Roman Empire. It wasn't until the 13th century that written law was revived. Known as the Continental System, these laws have continued to the present time."

English Law
At about the same time, English law began to develop. It used half forgotten rules of Roman law with a dash of Saxon tradition as well as Norman traditions brought during the Norman Conquest in 1066. Common heritage became common law in England.

It was these same basic traditions, he went on, that made their way to our country. Early laws in America were not written; rather, our political philosophy was founded in the relationships of man to his government. From this tradition came the Declaration of Independence and Bill of Rights.

And these same common laws made their way to Wisconsin and became its laws — laws that still remain the law of Wisconsin and are changed only by legislation or court decision.

Two Murals

Justice Hallows talked about two murals that hang in his courtroom in the state capitol. One, a painting of King John signing the Magna Carta, is the source of many rights today.

The other mural depicts the 1830 trial of Chief Oshkosh which took place in this part of Wisconsin (at that time it was part of Michigan). Chief Oshkosh was accused of killing the murderer of a member of his tribe. According to Indian custom, the Chief had every right to revenge. The case was heard before a 12-man jury in the court of Judge James Doty. After hearing the case, the jury could not reach a verdict on the grounds they could not condemn a man following customs of his people. It was then up to the judge to make a decision. He found Chief Oshkosh not guilty for the same reason the jury could not arrive at a verdict. "This," said Justice Hallows, "established the Indians' faith in the justice of the white man."

Wisconsin Law

Law in Wisconsin is created by the legislature in the form of state statutes and city ordinances. It's the duty of the supreme court, he said, to find in these laws the intent of the legislature.

Wisconsin has 160 trial judges today and a fine group of lawyers to carry out the needs of Wisconsin's citizens. However, it's the duty of the Supreme Court to look for errors in court decisions and, in case of error, to reverse decisions.

Wisconsin has had a supreme court since it became a territory in 1836 and it continued after statehood in 1848. During the first five years of statehood, there were five judges to serve the entire state. When these five judges sat together, they were the Supreme Court. Then, in 1853, three full-time justices were elected. This number increased to five in 1871 and to its present number of seven in 1903.

Terms of Judges

Originally, he went on, the justices were elected for six-year terms on a party basis. Terms changed to 10 years in 1871. Non-partisan election became law in 1912. Wisconsin law also says that only one justice can run for election in any one year to insure against having too many inexperienced justices on the bench at any one time.

The present Supreme Court is the youngest of any Supreme Court in Wisconsin's history and among its numbers are four former judges, two who taught law, three who practiced law, a former state attorney general, a former federal prosecutor and a city attorney. The justices represent a variety of backgrounds, geographical areas and religions. "That's what you want," he said. "Seven men with the same backgrounds would be a waste of money. Variety is needed to mold out a decision."

"There is no such thing," he continued, "as an easy case. Only a poor judge sees so little that he can call any case easy."

The Supreme Court works in four-week cycles hearing 28 cases in that period. Cases are heard, studied, conferences are held and finally opinions written. They also consider appeals of Wisconsin residents as well as appeals from prisoners who "want out."

Chief Justice Hallows said his job involves serving as presiding officer, seeing to it opinions are out on time and the work load evenly distributed.

Courts, he said, change law to meet changing times. This has often brought accusations that the court is trying to act as a legislative body, but courts do and always have made law in the English tradition. Change in law is needed in a progressive society. Laws must change as the world changes.

Officers Installed

At the conclusion of his speech, the chief justice installed the newly elected officers of the Wisconsin Association of Legal Secretaries. Mrs. Alfred Teske, Milwaukee, will serve as president; Mrs. Earl Christensen, first vice president and Mrs. Bernard Pawlowski, second vice president, both of Winnebago County; Mrs. William Hegeman, Madison, executive secretary; Mrs. Walter Meier, Racine, treasurer, and Mrs. John Hood, Milwaukee, national director.

Miss Ruth Armstrong's expression is comment enough as she checks the hemline on a miniskirt during a shopping spree to eye modern fashions in New Orleans. Miss Armstrong, who is 74, resides in a home for the elderly. (AP Wirephoto)

Some Children Need Love When Hurt, Others Lesson

BY DR. EVE JONES

DEAR DR. JONES: Whenever our children are hurt in play, my wife is far more interested in finding out what happened than in actually cuddling or comforting them. Shouldn't they get some sympathy from her? MR. S.O.

It depends on how old they are and how they get hurt. A 2-year-old needs cuddling for a scraped knee, but a 12-year-old needs to be shown how he could have avoided the accident by being more careful.

DEAR DR. JONES: Much of your advice is only good for a one- or two-child family, but in a family of six children sometimes one has to be unjust to one or two children in order to be just to the family.

This needn't be a disadvantage, for it teaches early in life that our wills and wants must be limited for the sake of the common good. Why don't you say something about the joy of large families? The teens in such a family, for example, don't place themselves in the center of their worlds, because they have discovered the joy of being unselfish. MRS. S. C.

Let's not make virtue of necessity, please. My psychological advice rests on views that see no necessary conflict between the individual and his needs and those of society, so long as we have the politics and economics to give room for each individual. Your views make sense only in an impoverished society, a totalitarian one, or an overcrowded one.

Adolescent selfishness is tough to put up with. But if it isn't allowed to develop, it can't give way naturally to cooperative independence, without it, all you have is a spiritless following of the leader.

British Woman Writes Novel to 'Demolish' Men

By GRANVILLE WATTS

LONDON (AP) — Men, says Jackie Collins, have had it too good for too long.

Miss Collins, a tall, leggy brunette who once decorated a string of British grade B movies has written a novel called "The World Is Full of Married Men," which sets out to demolish "the men who use women for their own purposes."

Miss Collins, 27, frankly admits that the book is very sexy. "Life is sexy," she says.

The book concentrates on the sort of people she knew in her acting days—publicity agents, photographers, film producers, advertising agents, models and starlets.

One of the most odious characters is a film producer looking for kicks.

"There are lots of film producers like him," she explained. "In my acting days you would go to see a producer and he'd say something like—'What about dinner tonight and we can discuss the part.'"

"Well, you knew immediately what he had in mind so you'd say 'No thanks.' But there would always be one little girl who would.

"Usually they never got the role, either."

Miss Collins' penthouse apartment has a bird's-eye view of nearby Buckingham Palace.

"You could say we are neighbors of the queen," she chuckles. "I often see Prince Philip landing and taking off in his helicopter on the palace lawn."

She is married to American businessman Oscar Lerman. They have two daughters, Tracy, 6 and Tiffany, 9 months.

"I wrote the book when I could while running the home and looking after the children," Miss Collins says. "It took me four years."

The attractive ex-actress wore a white silk blouse and mini-mini skirt. She didn't look too domesticated.

"I don't think of myself as an authority on sex," she says. "But it's a subject that interests everyone, otherwise there's something wrong with them."

In her book, Miss Collins takes a swipe at married men chasing young girls while their wives sit at home.

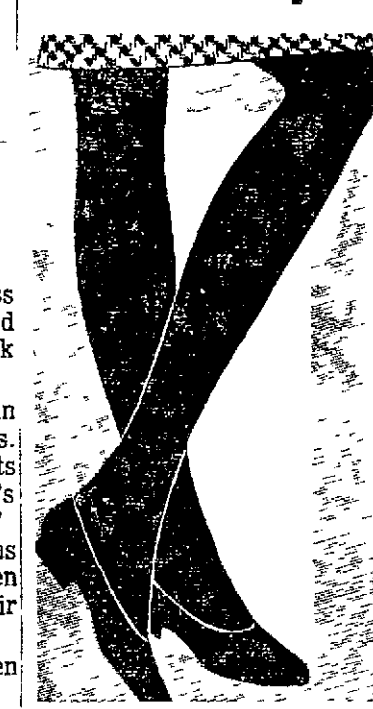

"The country is full of men like this," she says.

"I have tried to write a realistic book. I think most married men get away with murder."

"I decided to write about the married man at his worst. You could say it's to let women know what their men are up to."

Asked what her husband thought about it all, Miss Collins says: "He's the exception, of course."

Students, Parents Rally to Aid Overweight Teacher

LARKSPUR, Calif. (AP) — Elizabeth R. Blodgett, 41-year-old physical education teacher, prepared to battle for her job today as students and friends rallied to her "overweight" cause.

Miss Blodgett weighs in at 220 pounds and her high school principal, Donald Kreps, contends she must be dismissed because she doesn't "fit the image" for her line of work.

Miss Blodgett has been an instructor at Redwood High School for 12 years and she has retained a lawyer for a hearing today at which an effort will be made to end her tenure.

Standing five feet, seven inches, Miss Blodgett—who holds a master's degree in physical education from San Francisco State College—weighed 170 pounds when she joined the faculty.

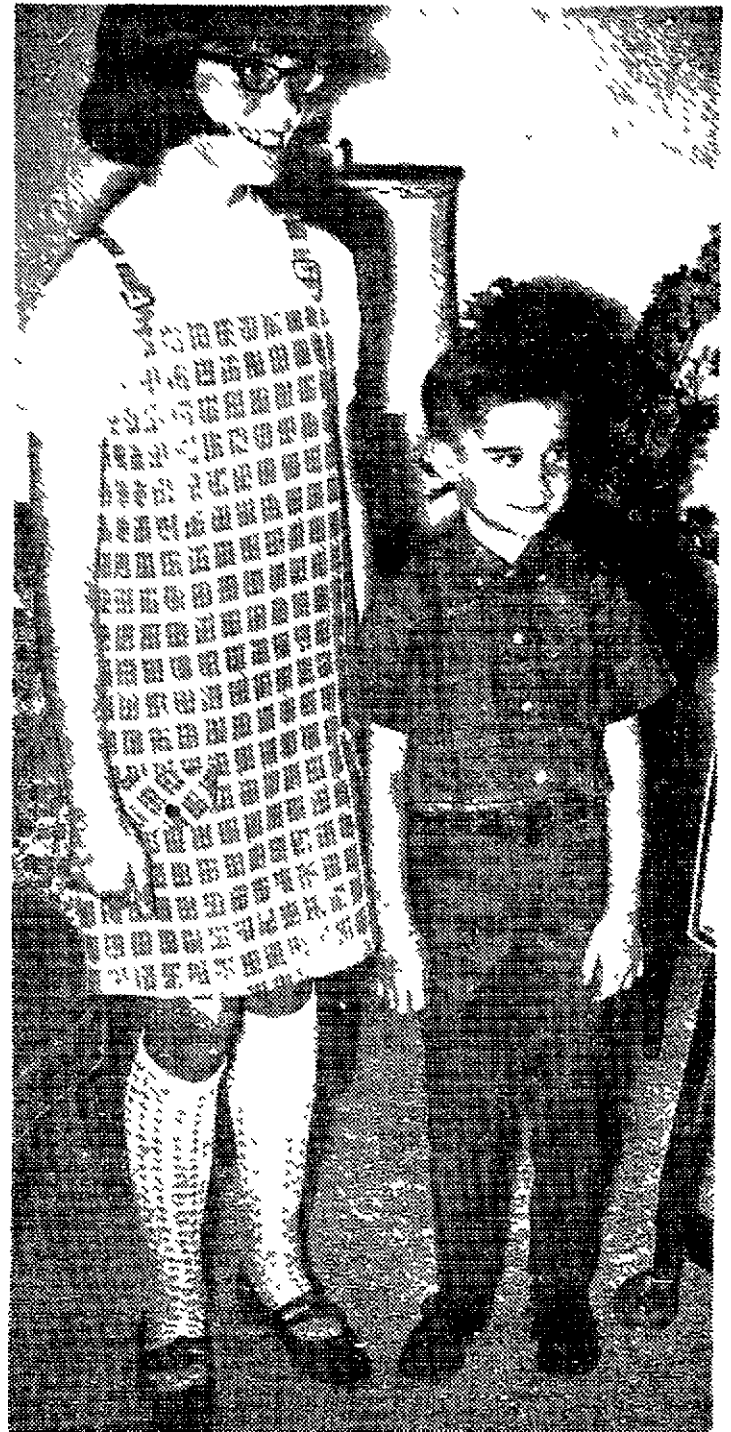

Shedding Weight

Then her weight increased, topping 253 last January when she visited a doctor who, she said, found a thyroid condition. Since then, Miss Blodgett has been shedding two pounds a week.

Support for Miss Blodgett has come from 89 girls who signed a petition in her behalf, and a number of parents who have had glowing words of praise. Larkspur, about 10 miles north of San Francisco, has 5,700 residents.

Her attorney, Leonard Bjorklund, contended that the school administration seems "more concerned with its Madison Avenue image than her capacity to teach."

Fashions to be shown at the Kaukauna Jaycettes "Fish and Fashion" event planned for Friday at Van Abel's Restaurant, Hollandtown, were previewed recently. Above, Edward Schaeffer wears permanent pressed tattersal bermudas with a mock turtle neck shirt in Banlon. Miss Donna Lamers has chosen coordinates of green pants with black, white and green mix and match top. At right, Patty King models a plaid buckled jumper with white knit top. Brother Danny wears polyester orange slacks with coordinated mix and match shirt. Men's, women's and children's fashions will be modeled. (Post-Crescent Photos)

The Ailing House Waterproof Wallpaper Is Advised

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: What is your opinion of putting wallpaper in a bathroom? — Boston.

A: The frequently steamy, warm air can be pretty rough on regular wallpaper but the waterproof type is very practical, as its coating prevents moisture penetration. It costs more and is well worth the difference!

Q: How can I seal several knots so that coat after coat of paint will not leak through? I suspect the pine planks for these book shelves were not thoroughly seasoned. — Milwaukee.

A: You are undoubtedly right about the nonseasoned wood

Sand the knots down to bare wood and dab on a couple of coats of aluminum paint or pure, fresh, white shellac. These make excellent sealers. At some paint stores you can also get special knot sealing preparations.

Q: I have never done much painting, but I imagine there is a right way which makes the job easier than the wrong way. If so, what is the correct order to repaint a room from floor to ceiling? — Baltimore.

A: You're absolutely right about the correct way making things easier! Here's the right order, and you'll see why: Do ceiling first, walls second, woodwork and trim third, floor last.

Suggestion: You'll find the easiest way to paint the ceiling is to brush a border a foot or so wide. Then take the step ladders out of the room and do all the rest from the floor, using a long-handled roller.

Q: While the linoleum on our hallway is getting a bit worn on the top, it still sticks to the floor firm and solid. My wife asked me to write to you about whether we could paint it and would it look good. How about it? — Columbus.

A: Go to it. Use top quality floor and deck enamel, and it ought to come out fine. Caution: Be absolutely sure you've cleaned off every scrap of dirt and grease (or wax).

City Says Parley on School Architect Hiring Is Premature

Board Request for Meeting Is Turned Down Temporarily

Any meeting with the school board on its newest proposal to hire an architect for a $3.3 building program between now and 1970 would be premature at this time, city officials said today.

As a result, the request of Charles Buchanan, board of education president, for a committee of the whole meeting with the council after its regular business session this week will be postponed.

Five Members Of Family Hurt In 2-Car Crash

Accident Occurs Sunday Afternoon Near Greenville

Five members of a Kenosha family were among six persons injured in a two-car accident about 3:45 p.m. Sunday on U.S. 45, just west of Greenville.

State police said that cars involved in the mishap were driven by Steven L. Stolper, 17, Barron, and Richard Wells, 37, Kenosha. Both drivers suffered minor injuries.

Taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by ambulance were Mrs. Wells, 34, who suffered leg, mouth, and nose injuries; and four Wells children, who suffered various cuts, bumps, and bruises.

Police said Stolper was attempting to pass another auto on a hill while southbound on 45. The Wells car was approaching from the south, police said. When Stolper tried to get back into his lane, the right wheels went onto the shoulder, police said, and the auto skidded broadside into the path of the Wells auto.

Damage was extensive. Police charged Stolper with passing on a hill.

Sharon Spierings, 22, 622 N. Appleton St., was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital by ambulance after her car overturned on Buchanan Road, two miles south of Little Chute, about 11:15 p.m. Sunday.

County police said she suffered head and neck injuries and a knee laceration. A passenger, John Garvey, route 2, West De Pere, was not injured.

Police said she was northbound when her 1961 auto went out of control, rolled and came to rest on its wheels in a field.

Stolen Car Recovered In Ditch on Vine Road

A stolen car, owned by Raymond Evers, route 2, Kaukauna, was found in a ditch on Vine Road, north of Outagamie County Trunk S, about 1 a.m. today.

The 1962 auto had been reported stolen a short time earlier from a Freedom bowling alley. The keys had been left in the auto when it was stolen. The sheriff's department is investigating.

Contractors, Masons Still Deadlocked

No New Talks Are Scheduled as Strike Enters Fourth Week

The Fox Valley Contractors Association and union masons were at a complete standoff today as the strike of bricklayers and cement finishers entered its fourth week.

Construction has been hampered in a 20-county area from Fond du Lac to the Wisconsin-Michigan line since the walkout began April 8.

"There is nothing new to report," was the comment of Merle Phalen, Fond du Lac, chief spokesman for the contractors.

Union officials could not be reached to comment.

No New Talks

A check with the district office of the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service at Green Bay disclosed no new contract talks have been scheduled between the parties.

The dispute hinges on money demands of an estimated 500 masons in a new three-year contract to replace the old pact which expired April 1.

However, Phalen did indicate he would be in touch with the mediators Tuesday or Wednesday to see whether another meeting would be worthwhile.

Union and management met for two hours here last week and the contractors turned down a revised proposal of the masons.

Inquest Set On Death Of Cyclist

A six-man coroner's jury will hear testimony Thursday on the traffic death April 8 of Michael Verhagen, 25, 2419 1/2 S. Jackson St.

Verhagen died of injuries sustained April 5 in an accident at N. Meade and E. Commercial streets. His northbound cycle collided with a southbound auto driven by Mrs. Loretta Andrews, 900 E. Winnebago St.

Coroner Bernard H. Kemps and Dist. Atty. George Greisch said four witnesses will be called. The inquest starts at 3 p.m. in the Circuit Court room at the courthouse.

Witnesses expected to be called include James Guckenberger, of rural Neenah, who arrived at the scene shortly after the 8:15 p.m. accident; Mrs. Andrews; and Appleton Patrolmen Carlton Bork and Arnold Nettekoven, who investigated the mishap.

Formal Negotiations Predict Settlement In Telephone Strike

A spokesman for the Communication Workers of America, AFL-CIO, predicted here today that a settlement of the strike against the Wisconsin Telephone Co. might come this week.

Gene Van Ryzin, president of Appleton Local 5521, said he contacted state union headquarters at Milwaukee this morning and learned that bargaining committees were in formal negotiations.

"I would say it looks favorable for some break by the middle of the week," Van Ryzin said.

However, he said should the strike not be settled by then, arrangements have been made to have a rally of strikers from Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac here Thursday or Friday.

Attend Rally

"Arrangements have been made for a representative of the International Union to attend," Van Ryzin said.

An estimated 285 operators, clerks and maintenance employees at the Appleton office have been on strike for two weeks.

Asked whether there were any incidences in which outside girls were being "imported," Van Ryzin said the union had no evidence, adding, "However, those on the picket lines claim they have been seeing strange faces entering the building here and suspect they may be from the outside."

The charge was leveled last week by a state union official.

Work on County Sanitary Code Near Completion

A final reworking of the proposed Outagamie County sanitary code is expected to be completed by the zoning committee Wednesday morning.

The sanitary code, which affects all unincorporated areas of the county, has twice been referred back to committee for study. However, passage is expected at the May 14 board session.

Private wells, septic tanks and other private sewage disposal systems are governed by the sanitary code. Objections had been raised by some rural supervisors over the provisions requiring a permit to do minor repair work on water systems, particularly on well pumps.

Police, Skin Divers Search Canal Yields Rusty Arsenal

Outagamie County authorities along with Merrill police and two skin divers fished stolen guns from the partially-drained government canal between S. Oneida and S. Lawe Streets Sunday morning.

County authorities said they and Merrill police have a suspect in the theft of the guns from a Merrill sport shop last September.

Sheriff's investigators said the suspect, whom they did not identify, may also be tied in with several recent major crimes in Outagamie, Calumet, and Winnebago Counties.

They did not elaborate, but said that an extensive investigation is continuing. Authorities said the investigation has been underway for several weeks.

Found Near Cottage

Investigators did not reveal how they obtained information that the stolen guns were in the deep canal. However, Lt. Jack Zuelzke, who coordinated Sunday's search along with Sheriff Norbert Marx, explained that Merrill police had been here recently on the investigation.

A large quantity of rifles, shotguns, ammunition and small items were taken last Sept. 16 or 17. Investigators said one of the stolen guns was found earlier near a Lake Winnebago cottage that was being razed.

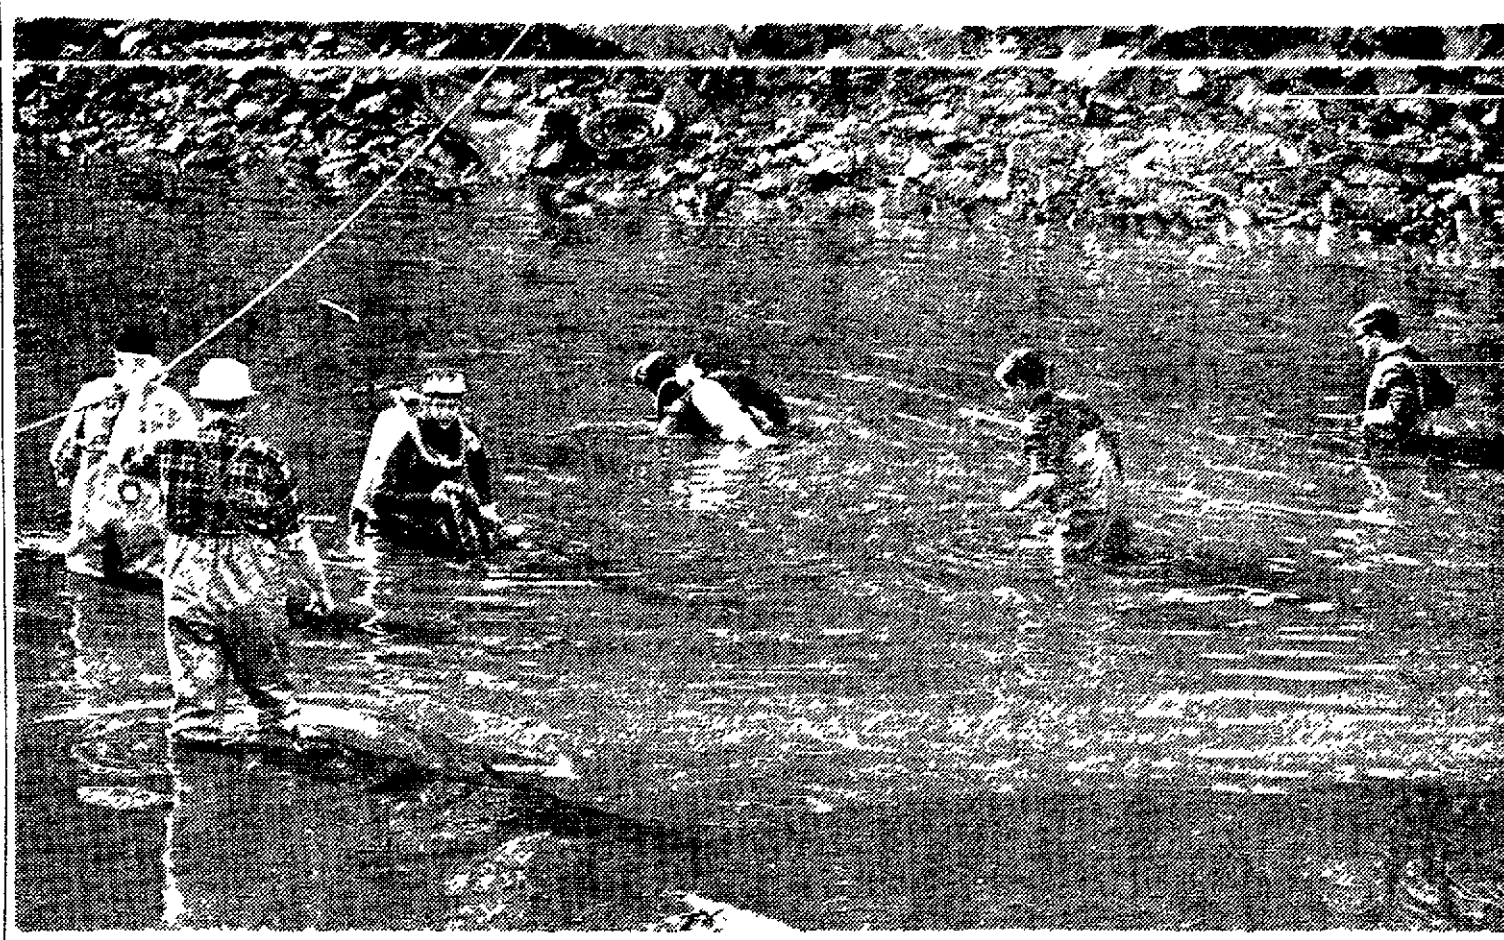

That gun, Zuelzke said, may have been used in the armed holdup in the parking lot at Koehnke's Supper Club last fall. It was shortly after the robbery that fire leveled the supper club located on U.S. 41, north of Neenah, in Winnebago County. Arson and burglary were suspected.

Merrill Police Chief Gerald Ploutz brought several of his officers and skin divers from Merrill and Tomahawk here for the search.

Deep Water

Marx and Zuelzke said that the Appleton project office of the Corps of Engineers co-operated by draining a portion of the canal early Sunday morning. Although much of the canal was free of water by 8 a.m., from two to five feet of water remained in low spots.

Teacher Pact Bargaining Stepped Up

A speedup is planned this week in negotiating Appleton's 1968-69 teacher contracts, as spokesmen for the board of education and the Appleton Education Association (AEA) prepare briefs on there deadlocked items offered to the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission (WERC) fact-finder for solution.

Negotiators indicated today they intend to increase bargaining sessions to two per week, about double the frequency of sessions prior to the early February impasse.

Only two bargaining sessions have been held since the March 21 fact-finding but negotiators said they feel a speedup is necessary, "with time slipping away." They met Thursday and reportedly reached agreement on the three items held up until after the fact-finding, but details are incomplete.

Sent to Fact Finder

Briefs must be sent to the fact-finder by mid-week so he can study arguments on the deadlocked items — salary, salary structure and summer school remuneration. A fact-finding recommendation might not be made for several months.

Bargainers hope to have all other items completely settled by the time the recommendation comes back. The teachers sought the fact-finding after rejecting a final school board offer in late January, and since then the board has indicated it will consider the fact-finder's recommendations in its bargaining.

The unofficial agreement reportedly was reached on sabbatical leave, extracurricular pay and use of para-professionals, or teachers aides.

Chief negotiators on both sides said today that they have resolved all differences on sabbatical leave, but still must work out specifics on the other two items.

Kenneth Sager, chief board negotiator, reported that his committee has agreed with teachers' request that extracurricular pay be based on the percentage system. However, he said, they still have to settle whether it will be a percentage of the base salary on the schedule or of the teacher's regular salary.

AEA spokesman Gordon Myse, an Appleton attorney, said there was a question whether to base the pay on the teacher's number of years experience in that particular extra-curricular field.

Bargainers also reportedly are in accord to establish a pilot program "in one or two schools" for using teachers' aides or para-professionals.

However, they have not agreed increase per teacher while the on which schools and what board's final offer was about a fields are to be used in the experiment.

Proposals from both sides on at the hearing.

The three items were presented at the initial bargaining session following the fact-finding. They were held in committee during the attempts by a WERC mediator in February to settle the bargaining differences.

The major issue in the impasse is whether annual pay increases be based on a percentage of the base or flat $250 increases which were proposed by the board. The present salary schedule uses a combination of flat and percentage increases.

$2,000 Increase

Supt. of Schools William Spears said at the fact-finding session that teachers' demands represented an average of $2,000 increase per teacher while the board's final offer was about a $1,000 increase.

Myse contested these figures.

Driver Pinned In Car After Accident

Hortonville Woman Hurt When Truck And Auto Collide

Marjorie Stalker, route 1, Hortonville, was taken by Lindy's Ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital after she was pinned for about 15 minutes in the wreckage of her car after it struck a truck about 8:10 a.m. today on Outagamie County Trunk O, a mile west of Mackville.

Outagamie County police, following preliminary investigation, said the woman suffered injuries to her knee, back, and chest, in addition to cuts and bruises.

Police said she was westbound on O when her car crossed the center line and sideswiped an eastbound truck driven by Charles Kohl, 19, 4730 N. Lynndale Drive. The truck, owned by Mueller Lumber Co., route 2, Appleton, was loaded with lumber. The vehicle tipped over in a south ditch which was partially filled with water.

It was not immediately determined if Kohl was injured. His family said he went to a hospital for examination.

Police said Mrs. Stalker was pinned behind the steering wheel of her car, which also ended up in the south ditch. Police estimated damage at $7,000.

Formal Negotiations Predict Settlement In Telephone Strike

A spokesman for the Communication Workers of America, AFL-CIO, predicted here today that a settlement of the strike against the Wisconsin Telephone Co. might come this week.

Gene Van Ryzin, president of Appleton Local 5521, said he contacted state union headquarters at Milwaukee this morning and learned that bargaining committees were in formal negotiations.

"I would say it looks favorable for some break by the middle of the week," Van Ryzin said.

However, he said should the strike not be settled by then, arrangements have been made to have a rally of strikers from Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac here Thursday or Friday.

Attend Rally

"Arrangements have been made for a representative of the International Union to attend," Van Ryzin said.

An estimated 285 operators, clerks and maintenance employees at the Appleton office have been on strike for two weeks.

Asked whether there were any incidences in which outside girls were being "imported," Van Ryzin said the union had no evidence, adding, "However, those on the picket lines claim they have been seeing strange faces entering the building here and suspect they may be from the outside."

The charge was leveled last week by a state union official.

Work on County Sanitary Code Near Completion

A final reworking of the proposed Outagamie County sanitary code is expected to be completed by the zoning committee Wednesday morning.

The sanitary code, which affects all unincorporated areas of the county, has twice been referred back to committee for study. However, passage is expected at the May 14 board session.

Private wells, septic tanks and other private sewage disposal systems are governed by the sanitary code. Objections had been raised by some rural supervisors over the provisions requiring a permit to do minor repair work on water systems, particularly on well pumps.

Police, Skin Divers Search Canal Yields Rusty Arsenal

Outagamie County authorities along with Merrill police and two skin divers fished stolen guns from the partially-drained government canal between S. Oneida and S. Lawe Streets Sunday morning.

County authorities said they and Merrill police have a suspect in the theft of the guns from a Merrill sport shop last September.

Sheriff's investigators said the suspect, whom they did not identify, may also be tied in with several recent major crimes in Outagamie, Calumet, and Winnebago Counties.

They did not elaborate, but said that an extensive investigation is continuing. Authorities said the investigation has been underway for several weeks.

Investigators did not reveal how they obtained information that the stolen guns were in the deep canal. However, Lt. Jack Zuelzke, who coordinated Sunday's search along with Sheriff Norbert Marx, explained that Merrill police had been here recently on the investigation.

A large quantity of rifles, shotguns, ammunition and small items were taken last Sept. 16 or 17. Investigators said one of the stolen guns was found earlier near a Lake Winnebago cottage that was being razed.

That gun, Zuelzke said, may have been used in the armed holdup in the parking lot at Koehnke's Supper Club last fall. It was shortly after the robbery that fire leveled the supper club located on U.S. 41, north of Neenah, in Winnebago County. Arson and burglary were suspected.

Merrill Police Chief Gerald Ploutz brought several of his officers and skin divers from Merrill and Tomahawk here for the search.

If such a resolution was presented, it would concur with a proposal by the Outagamie County finance committee that the state take over the facility.

Authority

The finance committee had suggested that the State Coordinating Commission on Higher Education take it over, but then had withheld presentation to the Outagamie Board, since it felt the commission might not have the proper legal authority to handle the facility.

With a wording change, the finance committee is expected to present the resolution to the Outagamie Board in May. It will offer the center to the state with the contingency that Winnebago County must pass a similar proposal.

Annexation Trial Starts In Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — Carl Schwarzbauer, 108 Appleton St., Menasha, denied emphatically this morning that there had been any connection between his sale of some 70 acres of property to the city of Menasha and his agreement to sign an annexation petition in August, 1965.

Schwarzbauer was the second witness called by Town of Menasha special attorney George St. Peter as the town opened its case challenging the city's Schwarzbauer and Banta annexations, totaling more than 480 acres.

Schwarzbauer testified the city has made two of five payments of $25,000 each for the property it bought. Schwarzbauer testified he signed the annexation petition as the owner of 7.68 acres facing Appleton Road.

On the land sale, Schwarzbauer declared, "Nothing was said about annexation when we made out the deal" on the land sale. Asked when annexation had been discussed, Schwarzbauer said there was "nothing mentioned about annexation I intended to annex." He added he'd been born and raised in Menasha, was 81 years old and wanted to annex "all the while."

St. Peter attempted to question Schwarzbauer about having signed over 10 per cent ownership of the Appleton Road property to National Manufacturers Bank and Trust Co. 11 days before signing the annexation petition. However, Judge Andrew Parnell ruled following an objection by the city's counsel that he would determine the question of ownership.

Robert E. McMahon, secretary-treasurer of McMahon Associates Inc., testified briefly about several maps which he said he had prepared for the town to determine the acreage of the Schwarzbauer annexation area.

Owning Private Plane Is New Status Symbol

BY SYLVIA PORTER

We own a couple of cars, have a swimming pool at our home in the country and an apartment in New York City. But we have no "family status;" we don't have a private family airplane.

My husband and I have jobs which necessitate a fair amount of traveling through the year.

Porter

and we think nothing of calling each other and saying "break" all dates for next week; I have to be in . . . But we have no "executive status;" we don't fly from city to city in the company jet.

Today, there are an estimated 110,000 private planes in this country, including planes owned by business and by individuals, and this number is expected to rise to 180,000 within 10 years. Right now, there are 549,000 licensed pilots in the U. S. — against 353,000 as recently as 1962.

Indicating the extent to which the company plane has taken hold in the U. S., there are now 29,000 corporation-owned airplanes in operation, about 700 of them jets. This year alone,

'Virginia Woolf' Playwright Albee To Speak at St. Norbert

WEST DE PERE — Edward Albee, author of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and winner of a Pulitzer Prize for his play, "A Delicate Balance," will speak at 8-15 p.m. Saturday at St. Norbert College.

The appearance is sponsored by the college Fine Arts speakers Committee and is open and free to the public.

Since the 1962 Broadway opening of "Virginia Woolf," Albee has been the subject of intense criticism and lavish praise from all quarters of the literary, theatrical and publishing world. The play, for example, was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize by the selection jury but rejected by the awards committee.

Forfeits $54 After Disturbance in Home

George W. Deltour, 26, 1331 E. Amelia St., arrested after he caused a disturbance at his home last week, forfeited a $54 bond in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Appleton police said that Deltour injured his wife during the disturbance, then was uncooperative and used profane language when questioned.

U. S. corporations are expected to spend over $1 billion for airplanes. In some cases, company air fleets have as many as 20 airplanes, costing up to $2 or $3 million apiece. And the number of business airplanes is expected to double in the next 10 years.

Key Factor

A first key factor behind the business airplane trend is the growing shortage of top and middle management. As Robert Ward, executive director of the National Business Aircraft Association, explains it, business aircraft "multiply" executives by making them readily available to customers and company operations all over the country. Today adds Ward, a company won't even look at a new plant site unless there is an airport nearby.

A second key factor is the high cost of top executive time. Each other and saying "break" all dates for next week; I have to be in . . . But we have no "executive status;" we don't fly from city to city in the company jet.

As for the forces behind the surge in private flying, these include the mounting proportion of our spending dollars available for luxuries rather than necessities, our increasing amounts of vacation time and numbers of long holiday weekends; the powerful trend toward faraway second homes; the nation's overall "mobility explosion;" and the small aircraft industry's determination to persuade us that "anyone who can drive a car can learn to fly an airplane."

9,000 Airports

In response to the private flying boom, there are now more than 9,000 airports in the U.S., the vast majority of them for small planes. Increasingly, vacation resorts have nearby air strips to accommodate private fliers. Increasingly, affluent families are putting in air strips near their homes.

The costs of owning your own airplane are high. Prices for fully-equipped, new small airplanes start at about $12,000, although sound, used craft can be bought for several thousand dollars less. Learning to fly can cost $600 or more. The typical costs of operating a small single or twin engine plane including gas, oil, hangar rental, insurance, depreciation and maintenance — may run anywhere from $10 to $30 an hour, depending on how frequently you use your plane.

But despite this cost drawback, private plane ownership is taking on the dimensions of a national trend.

With air taxis and commuter planes counted in, the outlook for private flying appears "ceiling unlimited."

Joseph Zickler Leaves Estate Of $125,680

Joseph R. Zickler, Appleton shoe store operator who died March 26, 1967 at the age of 74, left an estate having a gross market value of $125,680, according to final accounting of his will in Outagamie County Court Branch 1.

A large portion of Zickler's estate consisted of personal and joint property, including stocks.

W. Wisconsin Ave., reported the vending machine lock was broken and the money taken from reported missing. Allen told Appleton police the machine must have been entered since April 15, because it is checked every Monday by Cigarette Service personnel. He said the theft was discovered Monday.

The Appleton native, who operated Zickler's Shoe Store for 50 years, left his entire estate to his widow, Julia, 818 S. Weimer St. Zickler also was a noted musician.

YGOP Backs Ceci; Knowles 'Thanked'

Endorsement for Governor Is 'Conspicuously Absent'

OSHKOSH (AP)—Gov. Warren P. Knowles received a formal vote of appreciation for addressing the Wisconsin Young Republican convention during the weekend, but an endorsement of his re-election bid was conspicuously absent.

There was no move for or against Knowles by the delegates, despite adoption Sunday of a resolution supporting attorney Louis Ceci for attorney general.

Knowles, addressing the convention Saturday, had remarked he would welcome an endorsement "if endorsements are to be made."

There were about a half dozen votes expressing appreciation to party officials who appeared at the convention.

Resolutions Adopted

All resolutions but one offered by the convention's resolutions committee were adopted.

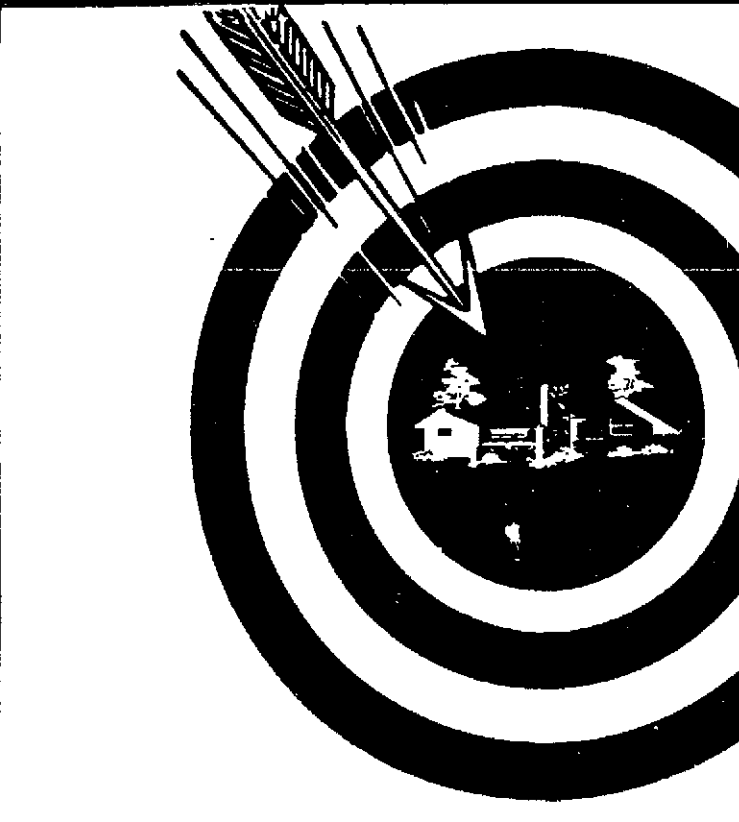

The resolutions opposed any surrender of U.S. sovereign rights in the Panama Canal Zone, opposed "civil violence and disorder," opposed continued economic boycotts of Rhodesia, and opposed the right-to-work clause of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Other resolutions asked for an increase in the $600 individual deduction on federal income taxes, and a reduction of the voting age to 19.

The lone resolution turned down involved a suggestion that the minimum wage under federal law be reduced.

Woody Kerr of Wisconsin State University, Whitewater, was elected chairman of the State College Young Republicans and Mark Wilder of Waukesha was named chairman of the YGOP teen-age group.

Mrs. Corky Hemp of Beloit was elected national committee-woman and Mrs. Dale Sullivan of Brown Deer state committee-woman.

Walton League Asks Thermal Pollution Guards

STEVENS POINT (AP)—Wisconsin's Izaak Walton League has asked state and federal governments to guard against overheating of Lake Michigan waters by nuclear-fuel power plants.

The group adopted a resolution Sunday during a weekend convention warning against the harm to wildlife of improper water temperatures.

Nuclear installations use water to cool their power plants, and the league expressed concern about heated water being discharged into the lake.

Michael Borden of Elm Grove was re-elected president of the state league, and E. K. Born of Sheboygan was named first vice president.

Larry Belmont of Stevens Point, Bill Thomasma of De Pere, Art Freiheit of Markesan and Orv Theyerl of Fond du Lac were named regional vice presidents.

The outstanding conservationist award was presented to Ray Zienemann of Sheboygan.

St. Norbert Musical 'West Side Story' Is Stunning Show; Triumph for Birder

BY JACK RUDOLPH

DE PERE — The bittersweet legend of Romeo and Juliet lived again Saturday night in the eye of a hurricane of concrete jungle warfare between the Jets and the Sharks. When the curtain closed on its tragic ending, a subdued audience filed quietly out of Pennings Hall, trapped in the emotional web of the greatest in a lengthening roll of exceptional St. Norbert College musicals.

"West Side Story" is a powerful, contemporary retelling of the old romance, with a score by Leonard Bernstein and book by Arthur Laurents. The youthful cast met its complex challenge magnificently.

For more than a decade Dudley Birder has created an outstanding series of musicals at the college, from "Brigadoon" through such well-remembered successes as "Bells are Ringing" and "Guys and Dolls." "West Side Story" tops them all.

Only three more performances — tonight through Wednesday — remain of the five-night run. Anyone who can do so but fails to see "West Side Story" will miss a unique experience.

"West Side Story" is primarily a dancing show, in which a succession of ballet numbers constitutes the backbone of its impact. The dancing was almost unbelievably good, the finest of any non-professional production I have ever seen.

From the opening and evocative prologue, through the challenging taunts of the rival gangs, to the whirlwind fury of the rumble, the young cast was superb. Repeatedly, the polished, spinning routines were punctuated by spontaneous applause.

Professional Skill

What honors accrue to Birder for again building and leading a stunning, crisply paced musical must be shared with Judy and Judy Gotshalks, their professional skill and meticulous drilling of the ensemble shone in every precise and flowing movement.

From leads to walk-ons, the large, strong and evenly-balanced cast matched its dancing with the conviction of its acting. The result was an ensemble effort in which some players stood out only because they had more to do.

Lapses were slight, possibly attributable to opening night pressures and easily rectified with the experience of additional performances. A few players fell into the common error of shouting unnecessarily, there was some racing and consequent loss of tart laugh lines.

On the plus side were the sharp reaction to cues, the unrelenting pace, consistency of characterization and the company's overall confidence.

Terry Meeuwse and Mike Barber were captivating leads, the poignancy of their performance heightened by audience awareness that their romance was foredoomed. They made a winsome couple, acting their deeply emotional roles with intelligent restraint and singing beautifully.

Miss Meeuwse sparkled as the fragile girl-woman, Maria. She was bewitching in her "I Feel Pretty" number, whose impact was all the greater for

Boy, 7, Bruised In Minor Mishap

James A. Stumpf, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stumpf, 1035 W. Elsie St., suffered minor leg and hip bruises when his bicycle was struck by a car about 12:45 p.m. Friday in front of 725 N. Mason St.

Appleton police said the boy rode out of a driveway into the path of a car driven by Timothy H. Lepold, 16, 830 E. Hancock St., who was southbound on Mason. Lepold reportedly was nearly stopped when his car struck the bicycle.

AHS-E Junior Selected for International Living Program

An Appleton girl has been selected for the Experiment in International Living, an educational exchange program, and will be spending the summer abroad.

Miss Devon Schneider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Schneider Jr., 826 E. Alton St., will live with a family in Luxembourg.

A junior at Appleton High School-East, Miss Schneider is news editor of the school newspaper and a member of the French and American Field Service (AFS) clubs. She will leave for Europe July 1 and return Aug. 21. While there she and her adopted family will take a three-week hiking trip through Switzerland.

The worldwide organization, with representatives in some 60 countries, annually conducts the exchange of more than 5,000 young men and women between the U.S. and 100 other nations. An outbound experiment group typically has from 10 to 12 men and women between 16 and 30, under the guidance of a trained leader, who live for one month as the "son" or "daughter" of a family abroad. This firsthand opportunity to develop friendships, learn the customs and traditions of another country and participate in the daily life of a family is the heart of the program. that the four guns were found. A sheriff's deputy found the first gun at 8:30 a.m. The 16 gauge shotgun was covered with rust which investigators removed with clear water and sandpaper. Skin divers found the other three guns, including a .410 gauge shotgun and two .35 caliber rifles. The stocks were missing from both rifles.

Authorities said that the serial numbers of all but the .410 gauge matched the numbers of the guns taken in the Merrill burglary. The number of the fourth gun was not immediately known, although the description matched that of a gun taken at Merrill. All four guns were turned over to Merrill police, who are expected to bring charges in connection with the burglary.

Zuelzke said there may be more guns in the muddy canal bottom, but dirty water and a large amount of bottom debris prevented a more thorough search. Skin divers had to "feel" along the canal bottom and deputies wearing waders used rakes.

Appleton police recovered 15 bicycles from the drained canal. The bicycles, most of them stripped of parts, had been stolen and abandoned in the canal, police said. Most were in poor condition. Authorities also found a variety of "junk" on the canal bottom, and at times shared the murky water with curious carp. Two rusty containers that may have been cash boxes were among the recovered items.

The Corps of Engineers took advantage of the low water to make minor repairs on the canal walls Sunday. The canal was re-filled late in the afternoon.

Two new leaders were crowned in the sixth annual Bowl-O-Rama Sunday as Earl Schabo, Appleton, moved into first place in Class A, and Ruth O'Connor, Waupaca, grabbed the top spot in women's Class B.

Ruth O'Connor slammed a 696 scratch to go with 188 pins handicap for a 862 total. Her high scratch game was 186, and she also had a 176 line.

In Class B action for the men, Jim Plach, Appleton, took over fourth place by hitting a 874 count. Plach had the distinction of rolling the top scratch game of the Bowl-O-Rama to date as 854 and Keith Gerow, Kaukauna, tied for eighth with 852.

Hits Grand Slam Off Fast Ball 'Anniversary Clout' Caps Big Day for Haynes

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Sunday meant more to the Appleton Foxes' young Danny Haynes than just the opening of the baseball season. It was his anniversary. Six months ago to the day, the Atlanta, Ga., native and his girl friend Jean exchanged marriage vows.

So you really couldn't blame the strapping 18-year-old first baseman for wanting to make it a day to remember. A special occasion called for a special performance, and Haynes gave his wife, teammates, and a throng of 1,712 Foxes rooters plenty of reason to celebrate by powering a fifth-inning grand slam home run and key a 6-3 triumph over Quincy.

"It was a fast ball," the No. 1 draft choice of the Chicago White Sox explained in the locker room afterwards, "about letter-high. He (Cub pitcher Dennis Gideon) 'hung' it on me." Haynes, powerfully built at 6-3, 215 pounds, jumped on the 1-0 pitch and sent it in a high arc over the left field wall, approximately 340 feet away.

The shot brought the Foxes back from a 1-0 deficit into a 4-1 advantage.

The new Foxes' clean-up hitter, who signed for "something over $10,000" after graduating from Headland High School, East Point, Ga., last June, also rapped a single — for two hits in five times at bat. The homer was his third of the spring but only his first in organized pro baseball. Haynes hit .241 with out a circuit smash in 43 games as a rookie last year for Sarasota.

A happy manager Gary Johnson was pleased with the efforts of Haynes and the rest of the club in the slugging department. "I liked the way they were swinging the bat out there," he beamed. The Foxes collected 10 hits for the day off three Cub hurlers.

Johnson had praise for starter and winning pitcher, Rick Jones, for turning in "a fine job." Jones survived a shaky first inning in which a pair of wild pitches led to the first Quincy run.

Jones got into more trouble around the middle portion of the contest, and Johnson thought about pulling him out in favor of Ross Sapp. "Twice around the sixth inning," he related, his breaking pitches started going into the dirt. But he pulled out of it each time.

Jones was relieved in the ninth frame when the Cubs loaded the bases with nobody out. Veteran reliever Willie Hooker then came on to put out the fire but not before Quincy scored twice, one on a walk that forced in a run.

Also singled out for his performance was third baseman Jeff Kolb, who turned in some sparkling defensive play. Kolb, regular in the Foxes' lineup a year ago, stopped at least two "hard shots" in addition to starting a double play and picking up a slow roller bared-handed.

Ortega, Tiant Hurl 2-Hitters Ward's Homer Off Chance Trips Twins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox have won two of their last three games and Manager Eddie Stanky still is running in the outfield.

Stanky continued his post-game physical fitness program Sunday after Pete Ward's ninth inning homer gave the Sox a 3-2 decision over the Minnesota Twins.

The routine, which started in the middle of Chicago's season-opening 10 game losing streak, sends Stanky jogging across the outfield swinging a lead bat after each game. Then the little skipper retires to the trainer's room for meditation.

He could have had nothing but good thoughts Sunday after Ward's poke beat Dean Chance.

Trade Shutouts

In other American League games, California nipped Oakland 4-3. Washington traded shutouts with Cleveland, winning 1-0 and then losing 2-0. New York split with Detroit, winning 2-1 and losing 3-2, and Boston blanked Baltimore 3-0 before the Orioles won the second game, 6-1.

Chance was nursing a 2-1 lead on homers by Harmon Killebrew and Ted Uhlaender going into the ninth but Luis Aparicio opened with a single and after Russ Snyder lined out, Ward connected.

The homer was Ward's fourth of the season and boosted his batting average to .340.

"We've been in every game; we've just been falling one in the winner on Roy White's hit short," said Ward, who made sure the Sox weren't one hit short this time.

And Stanky simply ran and swung his lead bat. He continued the post-game program in the even though he was ejected eighth but Bill Freehan and Jim Northrup hammered ninth inning for protesting a third strike.

Roger Repoz took over the Jim Hardin's six-hitter beat American League home run lead with his sixth of the year helping the Angels beat the Athletics. Rick Reichardt also homered for California.

Sammy Ellis, with late inning relief help from Minnie Rojas, won the game—his first victory in the American League.

Haynes Smashes 4-Run Homer; Jones Gains Mound Decision

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

The Appleton Foxes Sunday took no chances on emulating the parent Chicago White Sox in the "first victory" department.

Capitalizing on the impressive Midwest League debuts of Rick Jones and Danny Haynes, the defending champions logged their first 1968 victory on opening day with a 6-3 decision over Quincy. The White Sox, Appleton's major league affiliate, didn't score their first win until the season was more than two weeks old.

Jones, a 5-foot-11 right-hander, from Muncie, Ind., pitched 2-hit ball for eight innings enroute to his auspicious season-opening win. After a shaky start in the ninth inning, Jones was relieved by Willie Hooker — and the old master slammed the door on the Cubs' comeback hopes.

Hits 4-Run Homer

Haynes, the Chisox' No. 1 draft choice, unloaded a grand slam home run in the fifth inning to spike Jones to all the runs that were needed. The powerfully-built Georgian bids fair to repeat the success of the Foxes' Carlos May, the White Sox' No. 1 draft pick of the previous year, who was the 1967 ML batting leader until he was called into service.

Cardinals Keep Rolling Extra-Base Blasts Lead Cubs to Sweep Of Twin Bill, 8-4, 5-2

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs' extra-base punch has given Leo Durocher some needed relief, and temporarily transformed the Vulture into a vacuum cleaner.

Phil Regan, the former Vulture of the Los Angeles Dodgers' bullpen, tied up in both ends of Chicago's 8-4, 5-2 doubleheader sweep over Houston Sunday in his first appearances for the Cubs.

Regan, traded from the Dodgers to Chicago last Tuesday, protected sizable leads in the eighth inning of each game as Durocher's Cubs flattened the Astros with a 22-hit barrage that included four doubles, five triples and a home run.

A week ago Sunday, in his final relief stints for the Dodgers, the 31-year-old right-hander picked up two victories in a twin bill against the New York Mets.

Sixth Straight

In National League single games, St. Louis' high-flying Cardinals trimmed Pittsburgh 4-2 for their sixth straight victory, San Francisco downed the Dodgers 6-1 behind Gaylord Perry's five-hitter, the Mets nipped Cincinnati 6-5 for unbeaten rookie Jerry Koosman's fourth triumph and Philadelphia shaded Atlanta 4-3.

Glenn Beckert, Don Kessinger, Lou Johnson and Adolfo Phillips led the Cubs past Houston for an 8-8 season mark. Chicago has won five of its last six starts.

Beckert drilled two singles and his first 1968 homer in the opener. Kessinger stroked four hits, including a triple, in the twin bill and seized the National League batting lead with a .393 mark.

Johnson went 5-for-8 in the day, with a triple and two doubles, and Phillips was 4-for-7, with two triples and double.

Regan pitched two hitless innings.

Canadiens Edge Black Hawks, 4-3

Superior Depth Pays Off in Sudden Death Division Final

MONTREAL (AP) — There's year's Montreal Canadiens from their coach to the last rookie on the bench.

The Canadiens eliminated the Chicago Black Hawks from the best-of-7 Stanley Cup East Division final playoff Sunday with a 4-3 overtime victory in the fifth game behind the superior coaching of Toe Blake and the two-goal performance of rookie Jacques Lemaire.

Mntreal took the series four games to one.

Bobby Rousseau and J. C. Tremblay scored the other Montreal goals. Bob Schnauz, Stan Mikita and Wayne Maki connected for the Hawks.

The Hawks put up an able battle "and we didn't disgrace ourselves," said Chicago Coach Billy Reay but in the end it was the superior depth of the Canadiens that set up Lemaire for the payoff goal early in the sudden-death overtime.

Blake won a first and second-period battle with Reay to keep the Canadiens going.

Reay's strategy was to keep the Scooter line of Stan Mikita, Doug Mohns and Ken Wharram away from the tenacious checking of Jean Beliveau, Yvan Cournoyer and Gilles Tremblay.

The Chicago coach would wait until the teams were ready on the faceoff and then send out his Scooter Line, making sure Beliveau and his wingers were on the Montreal bench.

Blake, however, would keep the gate to his players' bench open until Reay sent out Mikita, Mohns and Wharram and then coaching of Toe Blake and the two-goal performance of rookie Jacques Lemaire.

The Canadiens now await the outcome of the West Division finals. St. Louis tied the series at two games apiece Saturday night with a 4-3 overtime victory over Minnesota.

The fifth game will take place in St. Louis tonight with the sixth in Minnesota Wednesday.

Willie McCovey cracked a two-run homer and run-producing single as the Giants subdued the Dodgers. Perry struck out eight and had a shutout until Willie Davis homered in the seventh. It was the first earned run off San Francisco pitching in 25 innings.

Jerry Grote paced the Mets' attack with three hits and two RBIs. The Reds chased Koonsman in the eighth, when Lee May unloaded a two-run homer, but Met relievers Danny Frisella, Billy Short and Ron Taylor combined to preserve the rookie southpaw's perfect record.

Pitcher Rick Wise delivered Philadelphia's deciding run with a ninth inning double, but needed relief help from Dick Farrell in the bottom of the ninth after being tagged for a two-run homer by Hank Aaron. Bill White homered for the Phillies, who have won seven of their last nine.

Slams 729 in State Meet

180-Average Bowler Leads Minor Division

KENOSHA (AP) — Robert Mayer ignored his 180-pin average Sunday and chalked up the best series to date in the Wisconsin State Bowling Association tournament.

Mayer, 30, of Milwaukee, rolled lines of 231, 246 and 252 for a 729 series for the lead in the minor singles division.

His average placed him in the minors competition. His score is the tourney's best for scratch marks, and leads the minor single handicap list although he had no handicap bonus.

Changes Sunday in the standings of the men's state bowling tourney: Team open—3. Curvel's, Kenosha, 3.015. Open doubles—3. Oren Potenz and Dick Werlein, Eau Claire, 1.219.

Ford Captures Top 5 Places In 500-Miler

Cale Yarborough Gains Win, Hikes Earnings Lead

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Cale Yarborough continued his winning ways here Sunday, leading the Ford Motor Co. to a shutout of Chrysler products in the Virginia 500 stock car race.

The stocky Timmonsville, S.C., driver upped his earnings to $76,206 for the still young NASCAR racing season, with a $5,476 first-place finish in his 1968 Mercury.

Following him were David Pearson, Donnie Allison, Lee Roy Yarborough—ally in Fords—and Tom Pistone of Charlotte, N.C., in a Mercury before Bud Moore of Charlotte in a 1968 Dodge could bring in Chrysler's highest finisher.

But the Ford people still weren't entirely satisfied. John Holman, boss of the Holman-Moody engineering firm that quarter-packed's Ford racing interests, lodged a protest against Plymouth star Richard Petty. Petty had led the race four times for a total of 248 laps before pitting for good with differential problems.

Petty's 1968 Plymouth was torn down by NASCAR officials in a two-hour post-race inspection session, but nothing illegal was found, and Holman remained mum on his reasons for the protest. It was the first time newsmen could remember anyone protesting a car that failed to finish a NASCAR race. Yarborough's victory speed was an average 66.686 miles an hour, hardly a record for the banked asphalt oval at Martinsville Speedway. Ten caution flags slowed the race.

Lombardi Still Spends Plenty Of Time Viewing Game Films

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Vince Lombardi, who resigned as head coach of the Green Bay Packers to devote his time to being general manager, says the change in roles hasn't changed his contact with the action.

Lombardi, among persons receiving citations Sunday from the Marquette University chapter of Alpha Sigma Nu, an honorary Jesuit society, said he still has the final word on roster make-up, including invitation of players to summer training camp.

"I'm spending as much time looking at game films as when I was coach," he said.

Expects Improvement

"I may have a different philosophy on personnel than what you see in the papers," he said. "But in three years, I expect a player to be a better player than he was when he came out of high school. I expect a player to be a better player than he was when he came out of high school. I expect a player to be a better player than he was when he came out of high school."

Hughtcap and Hardin held the Red Sox at bay. Carl Yastrzemski's single drove in Boston's only earned run in the opener.

Phil Ortega and Luis Tiant swapped two-hitters with Ortega scoring the only run in the Senators' first game victory and Tony Horton supplying the runs for the Indians' second game triumph.

Ortega bowled over Cleveland catcher Duke Sims in a home plate collision for the first game's only run. Ken McMullen's single, snapping an 0-for-17 slump, drove it in. Horton doubled and scored on Tommy Harper's seventh inning single, snapping a scoreless duel in the second game. Then Horton homered for an insurance run in the ninth inning.

Badger QBs Run in Drills

Ritcherson Shows Best Performance in Saturday Scrimmage

MADISON (AP)—Spring drills continue to leave Coach John Coatta with the suspicion that the quarterbacks on Wisconsin's football team will be doing considerable running this fall.

Six quarterbacks were tested Saturday during a 140-minute workout, the longest this year, and the backfield showed its best talent in the footwork category.

"They all run a lot on the option," Coatta said. "With our type of quarterback, we might do a lot of that this year."

"We've got a long way to go," he said, noting that 80 candidates showed up for the team. "That's an awful lot of kids to look at."

"We're ragged," he added. "Once we know what we're doing, we'll be all right."

Coatta said the best performer in the quarterback trials Saturday was Lew Ritcherson, who completed 14 passes for 142 yards, and gained 46 yards in six carries.

Spokesmen said the Badgers have developed only three pass patterns so far.

Scrimmage is planned Saturday at Fond du Lac, and a week later at La Crosse.

bol for third baseman Jeff Kolb to handle.

John Cox, the second Cub batter in the opening frame, hit a fly ball to left field, but Curt Forseth dropped it for a 2-base error. Robinson tried to score all the way from first on the play, but he was cut down. Fontenot to shortstop Harold Caldwell to catcher Art Kusnyer. Cox later scored on a wild pitch.

Dennis Gideon, Quincy southpaw, protected the precarious 1-0 cushion until the fifth inning. Loose defensive play by his mates and a big boom from Haynes' bat then cost Gideon his lead, as well as the eventual decision.

Jones opened the fifth by reaching base on shortstop Osvaldo Traconis' error. After one out, Kolb singled to left. Fontenot reached base on third baseman Bruskch's error, filling the bases. Haynes, a 6-3 right-handed hitter, brought Foxes fans leaping to their feet by walloping a long drive over the left field barrier clearing the bases.

The Foxes bosted their lead to 5-1 in the sixth as a bad throw by Traconis permitted a run to score.

In the Appleton eighth, Jones singled, Scott Northey doubled and Fontenot drove in a run.

Jim McMath and Olinto Rojas singled and Jim Dunegan walked to open the Quincy ninth.

Hooker replaced Jones and walked Dale Ehler to force in a run. Hooker then settled down near Los Angeles, went 7 1/2 to get Bruskch on a fielder's choice (a run scoring) to strike out Traconis and to get Spencer Davis on a fly-out.		AB		R		H		RBI

'For Mor' Quartet's Durable Style Scores Hit at Harmony Hoedown

Twenty years has changed neither the basic style of the For Mor barbershop quartet of Madison nor their audience appeal as it proved Saturday night at the Appleton chapter's 24th Harmony Hoedown at Appleton High School-West.

Even in their introductory "Hello Dolly," the Ink Spots style, for which the quartet has gained singing fame, was evident. Flashes of "Umbrella Man" and "Mamma Don't Allow" brought back memories of the days when they and the Cardinal quartet, also of Madison, barnstormed the state headlining the shows of some of the smaller chapters.

It is interesting that their style and special effects are still a desirable commodity in a society which tends to frown on the modern flourishes in harmony for competition purposes.

Fair Damsels
But it took a quartette of pretty damsels. "The Rarities" of Racine, the finest of the Sweet Adelines, to steal the show. They proved in their beautiful and touching "Yesterday" in true barbershop harmony, that there is much high quality music being produced for the rock-set today that could be adapted to barbershop.

Even England's Beatles would have had to admit the Rarities put across a lot of "soul." The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Singing in America, Inc., should look to a form of association with the Sweet Adelines which have been showing more and more just how much of age they are in singing ability.

But one of the brightest gems was the "Four Nobbys" of Spencer, Iowa. This is the first time for an Iowa quartet on a Fox Valley show since most of the guest quartets usually come from Minnesota and Illinois.

Fair East Tour
The Nobbys were just two days back from their Fair East entertaining tour. They spent 17 days entertaining wounded soldiers in service hospitals throughout the region.

Tiny Tim Appears on TV Tonight

BY TV SCOUT
7-8 — Channel 5 — Tiny Tim, the off-beat song stylist, is welcomed back to Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In by the whole cast singing a rousing "God Bless Tiny Tim." There's also a funny bit by the show's stars about an auto manufacturer's search for defects and Flip Wilson, in the Mod Mod segment, introduces his new "religion" which believes in a "death after life." Judy Carne and Arle Johnson make their point for the show's "sock it to me" line with a new song by Billie Barnes in a production that adds lyrics by all the cast members. (C)

6:30-7:30 — Channels 2-7 — Tony Davis as an Indian boy who gets mixed up in a murder helps Gunsmoke make hay out of a rehearsed yarn. Two hard-bitten brothers start a fight between their sister's would-be suitor and another man in the Long Branch. The fight is a prelude to the killing of the third party and the finger of guilt is then pointed at the unfortunate lover. Richard Muligan is featured as the seedy character whose romantic attentions spur the attack. (R-C)

7:30-8 — Channels 2-7 — Little Anissa Jones as Buffy, as cute a little show stealer as you'll ever see, is smitten by the love bug on Family Affair. The object of her affection is a football player making a play for Cissy. The young lady finds a sympathetic ear in Uncle Bill who is also smitten but by a beautiful lady scientist. She, however, is all work and no play. Lee Ann Meriwether and Joel Davison are featured. (R-C)

9:10 — Channels 2-7 — Shani Wallis and Tim Conway are featured on The Carol Burnett Show with Shani singing "It Had To Be You" and Tim appearing as the first Indian to be elected President. Shani and Carol combine for a bloomer-clad rendition of "Good Enough for Grandma's Fancy." In an intermission, a huge floral piece in the design of a girl's leg is presented to Lyle Waggoner by the Radio City Music Hall Rockettes. (C)

upcoming finale to Lawrence University Theatre's 1967-68 season.

The production will be seen at 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 8, through Saturday, May 11, in the Stansbury Theater in the Lawrence Music-Drama Center. "The Physicists" presents a vindictive woman's return to her native Swiss town. Theater department chairman, F. Theodore Cloak, directed the Lawrence production in 1962.

Duerrenmatt is the acknowledged leader of the contemporary German playwriting school. His avant-garde style merges the epic theatrical concept of Brecht with the theater of the absurd, creating an entertaining and instructive dramatic form eminently successful.

Among his plays are "It is Written" (1946); "The Blind Man" (1948); "Romulus the Great" (1949); and "The Marriage of Mr. Mississippi" (seen off-Broadway in 1958).

The Series of Pictures above show the make-up steps in creating a character, in this case the late Winston Churchill for the play "Soldiers" in Toronto. Actor John Colicos, only 30, shows how he changes from actor, left, to Britain's wartime statesmen in about two hours time. Colicos uses both a wig and latex mask for the transformation. (AP Wirephoto)

Tony Award Actress To Marry Producer

NEW YORK (AP) — Zoe Caldwell, the star of the "Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," says she is old enough for marriage now, and announced she will wed Robert Whitehead, producer of the hit drama.

The red-haired actress who won Broadway's Tony award last week for her starring performance in the play, said that she had waited until she was 34 to marry because she believed strongly in the "sanctity" of marriage. Whitehead, a widower, said he is "just barely over 50."

Miss Caldwell's on-stage romance with British actor Albert Finney in 1961 in "Othello" made off-stage headlines when Finney's wife, Jane, named Miss Caldwell as correspondent in an adultery suit. In "Othello" Finney played Cassio and Miss Caldwell played Bianca, his mistress.

WASHINGTON — The intriguing long-shot possibility of John Gardner, just resigned from President Johnson's cabinet, winding up as Richard M. Nixon's running-mate is a little longer as a result of a two-hour, private talk between the two men in Washington recently. Nixon sought the meeting ostensibly to talk over the crisis of the cities with the highly respected Gardner, a Republican who quit as Mr. Johnson's Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare because of disagreement over Vietnam and spending priorities.

But Nixon's move was also in reaction to suggestions by the powerful Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, that Gardner would be the best possible vice presidential candidate for Nixon. Even before publicizing this idea to reporters on April 4, Laird privately submitted it to the Nixon camp and urged that contact be made with Gardner.

The Nixon-Gardner confrontation did produce some general agreement on the scope of urban problems and, at Gardner's recommendation, Nixon has ordered several reports prepared on new ways to enlist private industry in Negro slums.

But overall, Gardner was unimpressed with Nixon's grasp of the urban crisis. He has had no intention of quitting as head of the urban coalition to enter politics, and the meeting with Nixon did not change his mind.

Actually, Nixon's political aides, while respecting Gardner's formidable talents, feel a videogenic politician is needed for vice president. While not wanting to offend Laird, they were conspicuously unenthusiastic about his idea.

UAW for Humphrey
Although presidential sentiment for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is stronger in the United Auto Workers (UAW) than in any other union, the undisclosed vote tally of its high command actually showed a slight plurality for Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

The vote by the UAW's executive board was eight for Humphrey, five for Kennedy, and three for Sen. Eugene McCarthy. One board member — president Walter Reuther — did not choose sides, and the decision was to keep neutral for now.

What's more, politicians who know Reuther believe he and his UAW may maintain that neutrality right up to the Democratic convention. If he does, Humphrey would have a fighting chance for major support in Michigan's 96-vote delegation, where UAW influence is critical.

Hotel Hunting
While Richard M. Nixon avoids provoking any Republicans these days, his campaign staff has been drawn into a nasty quarrel with the host Florida delegation over hotel space for the Republican National Convention in Miami.

In question is coveted space in the new, luxurious Hilton Plaza on Miami Beach. Nixon early this year reserved six floors (out of 17) for his operation. But the Republican National Committee assigned the Florida delegation to the Hilton, and the hotel's management pleaded there would not be room for both.

A hard kernel of Florida delegates favoring Gov. Ronald Reagan for president immediately began passing word that Nixon was trying to toss the host delegation out of its assigned hotel. To buttress their claims of Nixon pressure, they pointed to the part played in the housing arrangements by Peter Flanagan, a long-time Nixon lieutenant whose father is a major shareholder in the Hilton chain.

The Nixon people claim they are the innocent victims and that the hotel's management, not Nixon, is trying to bounce the Florida delegation. The reason: the home state delegation, arriving late and leaving early, will spend considerably less money than would an out-of-state delegation.

Even if Gov. John McKeithen of Louisiana bolts the national Democratic ticket this year, he won't come over to George Wallace, his arch rival in Deep South politics.

McKeithen is an all-out supporter of Humphrey and tells friends he could carry Louisiana for the vice president. If either Kennedy or McCarthy were nominated, however, he probably would bolt — not to Wallace but to an independent elector ticket which might help throw the election into the House of Representatives.

Surprisingly, McKeithen's allies believe Leander Perez, leader of the far right in Louisiana and an ardent Wallaceite, would not undercut the governor's plans even if those plans involved carrying the state for Humphrey.

Patient Gets New Heart in Paris Hospital

Doctors Express Concern Over 66-Year-Old Man's Recovery

PARIS (AP) — The first French heart transplant operation was performed this week-end but doctors today expressed concern for the patient's recovery.

Speaking with newsmen 30 hours after the operation, the doctors reported the patient suffered a circulation failure during surgery and since then nerve complications have set in.

The patient is Clovis Roblain, 66, a truck driver from central France, who had suffered for years with a heart ailment.

This was the world's seventh human heart transplant operation, but only one of the other patients survived. He is Dr. Philip Blaiberg, 58, a South African dentist who was operated on Jan. 2 at Cape Town. He went home from the hospital March 16.

9-Hour Operation

The operation began Saturday night at La Pitie Hospital and ended nine hours later. Heart surgeons Christian Cabrol and Gerard Guiraudon headed the operating team.

Dr. Maurice Mercadier, chief of surgery at La Pitie Hospital, told a news conference "the condition of the patient is causing anxiety among us."

Mercadier said Roblain had not yet recovered lucidity, but did not explain further. He added that there had been no difficulty in the operation itself.

He said the patient's electrocardiogram was normal, that his pulse was regular but his blood pressure was high.

The cardio vascular or circulatory problem developed during the operation and the blood pressure suddenly lowered. There was speculation that there had been some brain damage, before the blood pressure returned to normal, but Mercadier did not mention this possibility.

'Prognosis Reserved'

Earlier, Mercadier had said there had been "neurological complications which made the prognosis very reserved."

Roblain was placed in a room, sterilized with ultra violet rays,

Hanoi Dismisses Compromise Idea

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — North Vietnamese Ambassador Nguyen Chan said today Hanoi stands by Phnom Penh or Warsaw as alternative sites for preliminary Vietnam peace talks.

Asked about rumors of possible compromise in the argument over the site, Chan said: "We suggested first one place then another. It's up to the United States to show its good will and choose."

He declined to comment on reports that the United States has indicated willingness to accept Warsaw for initial contacts provided representatives of the Saigon government are allowed access to the Polish capital.

Draft Board Wants Look At Blind Man

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A blind Harvard Law School student has been reclassified 1A by his draft board in Mt. Vernon, N.Y., and ordered to take his pre-induction physical examination.

"I'm particularly anxious to take the eye test," Harold Krents said Saturday night.

"If I go, my ambition is to be a bombardier," he added.

Krents, 23, said his 2-S student deferment had been canceled and he has been given 30 days to appeal.

"It's really wild," Krents said. "I talked to my father today and he said the draft board told him: 'He very well may be blind, but he still has to take the physical.'"

Deferment Canceled

Krents said he has written to his draft board every year indicating he was blind and therefore should be classified 4-F, but that every year he has been notified he was classified 2-S. Then two days ago the student deferment was canceled.

"All I can say is we must be losing the war," Krents said. "If they're that desperate I'll go—as long as somebody will aim me."

Krents has been virtually blind since birth, and completely without sight since the age of nine.

Enemy Scatters From U.S. Assault on Valley

Dust and Ashes Cover an Area four miles south of Khe Sanh, South Vietnam, that once was rich with fertile red soil and thick foliage. Some 450 tons of explosives were dropped here by the Air Force in January and March to stop a buildup of men and material. The bomb load equals one-sixth the total tonnage dropped during the Korean War. U.S. cavalrymen now patrol the region. (AP Wirephoto)

Thousands Of Troopers In Invasion

SAIGON (AP) — A big U.S. force that plunged by helicopter into what its commander called "real paydirt" has found at least one enemy camp and supplies in the A Shau Valley, but the enemy troops scattered before the invaders.

The 10-day-old offensive, not announced until Sunday night, continues under a security blackout. Correspondents with the troops were permitted to report only actions in the first three days of the assault.

The helicopters swarmed in April 19 carrying thousands of U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division troopers and equipment into what has been a North Vietnamese stronghold for two years. Enemy guns brought down or damaged 30 of the choppers.

'Big Bad, Day'

"Hell, I've never lost that many in weeks and weeks," said Maj. Gen. John J. Tolson, commander of the Flying Horsemen. "By far it's the hottest place we've ever gone into... The old opponent gave me a big bad day."

The U.S. Command said the operation, called Delaware, was a "reconnaissance in force," indicating that the American force would smash the staging areas and supply lines and then pull out. South Vietnamese paratroopers formed a blocking force at the valley's exit toward Hue.

Despite the heavy antiaircraft fire, casualties on both sides were reported relatively light in the first three days, with fewer than 50 North Vietnamese and 20 Americans killed. Sixteen U.S. helicopter crewmen were wounded.

Poor People's Campaign

March's First Phase Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 100 advance scouts from the Poor People's Campaign kick off today what could become the nation's largest and longest campaign.

It would have to get a lot larger than originally planned to beat the estimated 15,000 veterans who camped on Capitol Hill in 1952, demanding their veterans' bonuses be paid 13 years ahead of schedule.

But campaign organizers, here for three days of preliminary negotiating with government leaders, said Sunday they think it might be bigger.

Support among the poor has proven so strong, they said, that they've turned from their original goal of 3,000 tent dwellers to talk of "hundreds of thousands" of demonstrators camped all over Washington.

Talks With Officials

The Rev. Ralph Abernathy, who took over as president of the sponsoring Southern Christian Leadership Conference after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated April 4, has scheduled talks today through Wednesday with federal department heads from Secretary of State Dean Rusk on down.

Today's schedule included calls on Rusk, Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, and Robert Weaver, secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

The thought of hundreds of thousands of people, mostly Negroes, streaming into tent cities before the nation's capital has had time to recover from its early April riots is unsettling to many, even though organizers take pains to emphasize their belief in nonviolence.

Almost nobody is neutral about the idea. Some Senate leaders have denounced it, while others say the poor should be welcomed. Businessmen are reducing inventories and duplicating vital records.

Police have laid plans for possible disturbances. And in the storefront headquarters of SCLC, a small army of volunteers works hard at sorting out last-minute details.

Nothing much is expected to happen until May 13. That's when Abernathy, convinced that his pleas for a guaranteed annual income and housing, job and education guarantees will fall on deaf ears, expects to lead the first wave of his thousands of marchers into Washington.

And then?

Not One-Day March

"That's what I'd like to know," said a 25-year-old unemployed mechanic who lives not far from SCLC headquarters. "I ain't had much education, but even I can see that they ain't gettin' nothin' out of Congress."

The campaign will not be another good-natured, one-day march on Washington like the one in 1963, King told a business group before he was killed. It will be militant, he said. "We will stay until we get a response."

His words were echoed Sunday by campaign coordinator Bernard Lafayette, who said: "We feel it may become necessary to visit the congressmen. And if there is no response, it may become necessary to wait for him... to wait in an undesirable place."

In other words, to stage sit-ins—the civil disobedience phase of the campaign.

"We feel Congress has to be changed, and that's how our demands will be met," Lafayette said.

Uncover Camp

After the landing, Pfc. Jimmy R. Rose of Smithfield, N.C., and Sgt. Hillary Craig of Winter Park, Fla., followed a communications wire to a 30-building enemy camp evacuated so quickly that laundry still was hanging on lines.

The American troops found dozens of 50-gallon drums of gasoline, four Russian trucks, 300 Chinese automatic rifles still in crates, hundreds of artillery and antiaircraft rounds, a ton of rice and 100 Russian mine detectors.

The 25-mile-long valley near the Laotian border and southwest of Hue, has been a staging point for North Vietnamese troops since they overran a U.S. Special Forces camp in it two years ago.

"This is one of the most important pieces of real estate the enemy has," said Gen. Tolson.

Once More, Rocky Will Tell His Plans

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will make "an announcement concerning his political plans" at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Leslie Slope, the governor's press secretary, said today.

Slope's announcement came as reports circulated in the Capitol that Rockefeller would declare his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller has arranged to fly a full complement of newsmen with him when he travels to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on Thursday—on a trip that had not been previously announced.

In Albany, today, the governor met with top aides and arranged to meet with legislative leaders and New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay in an effort to clear up an impasse over the state budget and request for more state aid to big cities.

Rockefeller was reported ready also to cancel his appearance on a tour with Republican governors in several western states early next month to obtain information needed to put together a GOP platform for the upcoming presidential nominating convention.

In making known Rockefeller's intention of holding a news conference Tuesday, Slope refused to go beyond his brief statement which said:

Surprised Nation

"Gov. Rockefeller will have an announcement concerning his political plans at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the Red Room."

Rockefeller surprised political leaders nationwide on March 21 when he said that he would not actively seek the nomination this year.

He said then that he would comment on the issues and would be available if a draft developed. His associates said later that he felt that his remarks had been interpreted too literally.

Hughes, Getty Top 'Rich' List

NEW YORK (AP) — A Fortune magazine survey report says the two richest Americans—the only ones who probably can be listed as billionaires—are oilman J. Paul Getty and financier Howard Hughes.

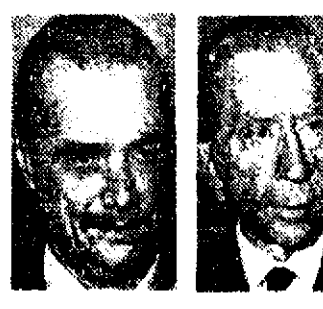

The May issue of the magazine says Getty, 75, and Hughes, 62, are followed by six other Americans who are half-billionaires and 153 who have a net worth of more than $100 million each.

$1,339,417,316

The Fortune article estimates Getty's visible assets at $957,404,289 conservatively and $1,338,417,316 liberally.

It estimates Hughes' wealth at $985,500,000 conservatively and $1,373,000,000 liberally.

Fortune says that a similar survey it made in 1957 estimated

Hughes Getty

ed Getty's wealth between $700 million and $1 billion, and Hughes' wealth between $200 million and $400 million.

"All told," the article says, "45 persons in the U.S. were worth $100 million or more has grown to 66."

In compiling the list of these 66 individuals, the article says, Fortune "included the holdings of spouses and minor children of trusts, and of foundations established by the individuals or their spouses."

Rockefeller Brothers

Listed in the $200 million to $300 million class are New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his brothers—David, John and Laurance, all of New York, and Winthrop, governor of Arkansas.

"About half the people with $150 million or more inherited the bulk of it," the article says, and "the notion that the du Ponts, Fords, Mellons and Rockefellers are among America's wealthiest citizens happens to be true."

North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh casts his ballot in Hanoi April 28 to elect members of the People's Councils of the autonomous regions, the provinces and major cities," according to captions accompanying this photo received today in Tokyo from the North Vietnamese news agency.

'Neo-Nazis' Gain in W. German Voting

Ultra-Rightists Get 9.8 Per Cent Of Ballots; Brandt's Party Suffers

By JOHN BAUSMAN
STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — West Germany's ultra-rightist party won seats in another state legislature Sunday and got its biggest share of the vote to date. Willy Brandt's Socialists were the big losers.

The election in Baden-Wuerttemberg was the last state vote before the federal elections next year and was considered an important indication of political trends. Public interest was reflected by a 70.6 per cent turnout of the 5.6 million eligible voters, a record for an election in the state.

The ultra-right National Democrats, whose opponents charge they are neo-Nazis, were campaigning in the state for the first time. They won 12 of the 127 legislative seats and collected 9.8 per cent of the vote. The three-year-old party now has won seats in seven state parliaments.

Influenced by Riots

All parties agreed the voters were influenced by the leftist student demonstrations and riots in West Berlin and other major cities during the Easter weekend. The National Democrats took a hard line toward the students, and the party chairman, Adolf Von Thadden, accused the Socialists of a fuzzy attitude toward the demonstrators.

Brandt's son Peter was a prominent demonstrator.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democrats remained the strongest party in the state, but with 44.2 per cent of the vote, it had 2 per cent less than four years ago.

Brandt's Social Democrats took a harder loss, winning 29 per cent of the vote compared to 37.3 per cent in 1964. The Free Democrats increased their share of the vote from 13.1 per cent to 14.4.

It was the worst setback for the Socialists since they joined the Christian Democrats in a coalition federal government in November 1966. This could put a strain on the Bonn government.

It was the first time that both smaller parties had gained at the expense of the two larger parties. For many years the trend in West Germany has been for the big parties to get bigger and the small ones to get smaller or even disappear.

Bulldogs Win Triangular at Clintonville

Sherman Della Scores 20 Points For the Trucker

CLINTONVILLE — Sherman Della's spectacular performance for the Trucker track team Friday wasn't enough to keep the New London Bulldogs from taking the triangular event in team scoring.

The Bulldogs earned 72½ points. Clintonville 54½ and Waupaca 21 in the meet between the three large Waupaca County school districts.

Della accounted for 20 team points by taking the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.2; the 180-yard low hurdles in 21.2; long jump with a leap of 20 feet 2 inches, and the high jump, clearing the bar at 5 feet 2 inches.

Gary Slosarek, the state's fourth fastest 100-yard dashman so far, dominated the sprints with first in the 100 in 10.5 and the 220 in 23.3. Other firsts were recorded by New London in both the 880-yard and mile relays. Steve Waterstradt in the 440-yard dash in 54.3, and Gary Markman in the shot put with a toss of 42 feet 8½ inches.

Mick Sannes took the discus for the Comets with a toss of 131 feet 8 inches and Dale Rush posted the only other Waupaca win by taking the 880-yard run in 2:04.8.

The results:

High Hurdles: 1. Della (C) 2. Court (NL) 3. Nienke (C) 4. Strong (NL). Time :15.2

100-yard Dash: 1. Slosarek (NL) 2. Schwenke (C) 3. Brown (NL) 4. Sawall (W). Time :10.5

Mile Run: 1. Christianson (C) 2. Berton (C) 3. Cloutier (NL) 4. Barrington (NL). Time 4:46.9
